OLE
MISS

KALE

IDOSCOPE . . . 1960

Ole Miss exists as a unit in the infinite universe. As a single speck in the vast cosmos, its actions and fate are intertwined with that of the whole.

Yet Ole Miss itself is a microcosm of considerable complexity. The surface appearances and currents which bestow identity upon the entity of Ole Miss shift and revolve over a period of years. This variance results in subtle transformations of the construction of the pattern, yet this pattern remains essentially unchanged, and its basic characteristics are always discernable as belonging to Ole Miss.

The stately doors of the Lyceum swing open and shut now as they did in 1941 or 1916 or 1870. Yet the faces which pass through these doors change slightly each year, until a four-year cycle is completed, only to find that three more have already begun.

The couples who stroll hand-in-hand under the trees in the grove are not the ones who trailed the same paths ten years ago, nor will the couples of 1970 be identical with those of the present. Yet the graceful trees remain, casting benign shadows across hushed words.

This book attempts to capture in words and pictures one year of change and progress in the endless cycle, while striving to illustrate the great binding spirit which gives the pattern of Ole Miss its undeniable and lasting beauty.

Throbbing, shifting patterns, united by an intangible spirit of achievement . . . here is KALEIDOSCOPE 1960.

CHANGING MOODS CREATE THE

KALIEDOSCOPE OF LIFE AT OLE MISS

CLASSES RESUME MONDAY AT EIGHT

Sleepy, unshaven, somewhat dazed students, cursing a treacherous administration, Poor Richard, and all other advocates of "early to rise," stumbled to eight-o'clocks. Some were bolstered by coffee, some had breakfasted well on three cigarettes, others, less fortunate, just stumbled. The days began for some at five or six when they got up for pre-quiz cramming. They ended for others at four the next morning when they dropped books and fell asleep at desks. Between beginning and end, some played, some loafed, some worked, but most attended classes and most studied.

They studied everywhere. In the grill, linguists mumbled irregular verbs as the jukebox screamed "Poison Ivy." Psychology majors with open copies of Case Histories of Paranoic Vampires and Education students reading Ethical Relativism in Children's Literature rushed to their next classes. Engineers, delighting in the newly installed Muzak system, spilled the cafeteria's incomparable coffee on slide rules. At Sardis, pharmacists got suntans while memorizing the formula for Vick's Salve. They studied everything, everywhere.

Biology labs go on endlessly.

The constantly rustling of pages of numerous tomes, the creaking of chairs, the shuffling of feet, the hoarse whispers create an atmosphere not the least conducive to study.

Not even a brilliant lecture can capture the intellect of some as each professor soon learns that whispers and note-passing are brought from high school by a few.

Even the lazy students work hard for their beloved Dr. Eickhorst while the effervescent professor shouts, walks about, calls his students "dirty bums" and puts on a great show as they learn to love the German language as they love him.

The intricacies of a calculus formula have so deadened the sensibilities of an engineering student that he is oblivious to the beautiful day and all that it could give in the way of pleasure.

Books in the hall are a sure sign that freshmen are going through some mental gymnastics over an exam for which they stayed up all night studying.

At registration, freshmen confidentially listed majors on their number 9, 14, 87, and 1063 cards, while seniors puzzled and then wrote "undecided." Everyone fought for desired sections and preferred instructors. At first classes, professors and students eyed each other warily. Assignments began immediately. Term papers made the librarians feel useful, as all but a favored few crowded the circulation desks. Reserve books were assigned. And there were classes and more classes. Mid-term grades intensified efforts.

The afternoon drags slowly by as a biology student prepares another set of slides for his microscope.

"I don't give a damn if she wins the election or not. I just want to get some sleep before class."

STUDYING STRETCHED ON ENDLESSLY

Finals came, bringing all night cramming and vague rumors of stolen examinations. Exam days made teachers and students who had become relatively friendly eye each other warily again. Grades were posted, averages calculated, celebrations held for one reason or another, and the semester was over.

The silence of the foyer of the library is broken by the clatter of high heels as a coed winds her way to the Commerce room for a study date.

The library's file of newspapers provides the students with a source of current news and commentary on it.

As more students get TV sets in their rooms and as more dorms get sets for the lounges, the news events are brought to the campus live from where they happen, and the students can see the news in the making.

THE CAMPUS FELT WORLD TENSIONS

Ole Miss in 1959-60 was a part of a world in which violent change was a feature of each day that came and went, as a divided world met in battle on a thousand different fronts. There were the stunning triumphs of Russia's drive into space, the first contact with the moon's surface by an earth vehicle, and the first pictures of the moon's hidden side. The world shook while Red China threw her masses to the rebuilding of an ancient nation. There was the interminable steel strike at home, the visit of Nikita Khrushchev, the sight of Fidel Castro opening the way for communism at America's doorstep, the scandals of "payola" and of Charles Van Doren, the revelations of the big labor scandals, the growing political fever, the unforgettable "world crusade" of President Eisenhower, the equally unforgettable trip of Vice-President Nixon to Russia, and the endless strife over Algeria.

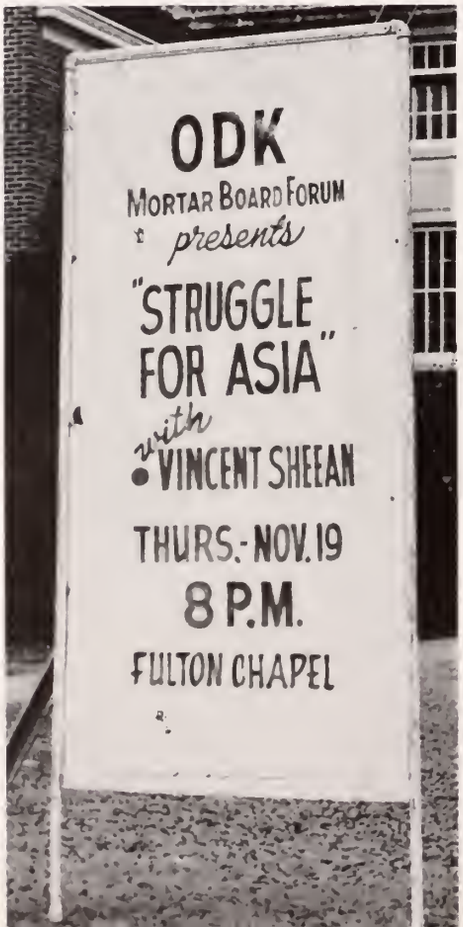
Ole Miss students saw none of these things as they happened nor felt any direct part of the physical force of these events. But in the realm of minds and ideas, students were inescapably involved. Newspapers, radios, and television provided a link with the world. To the campus came distinguished men who had seen or been a part of many great events. In classes and meetings, professors who were conscious of the world's happenings drove home their significance.

At the center of it all, perhaps, was the awareness of an unprecedented challenge to America and the free world. The possible shape of the future made the present even more meaningful. Each day of preparation at Ole Miss took on a new meaning. Students sensed that they could no longer be preparing simply for themselves. There now and hereafter would have to be preparation for the nation, the world, and the survival of free civilization.

The campus radio station does not limit itself to disc jockeys and foolishness, but it provides an accurate and up-to-date news coverage.

Even in the grill a student can keep abreast of the changing affairs of the world as the blare of the juke box fades into the background while the cold war becomes foremost in the readers mind. That will affect his future much more than what is number one on the Hit Parade this week.

A rousing chorus from "Most Happy Fella" brings applause from the audience in Fulton Chapel.



The familiar signboards inform the student body of the many famous persons who visit the campus each year under the auspices of ODK.

Senator Gore stimulated the thoughts of the student body as he made a brilliant speech on disarmament.

FAMOUS VISITORS TO FULTON CHAPEL

The world of Ole Miss was filled throughout the year with the flowering of the artistic spirit, with musical and dramatic expression, with the words of men who had seen and thought and done much. To the campus came the majesty of Bach's Mass as done by Robert Shaw. To the campus came Leonard Pennario and the Finnish Ballet. Students heard John Mason Brown, Joe Martin, Vincent Sheean, and Albert Gore. They saw a road company bring alive the campus stage with Broadway's "The Most Happy Fella."

These were only a few of the more serious events at Ole Miss that came from outside campus life. They made the world of Ole Miss richer, more meaningful and more nearly complete.

The finale of the performance of the Finnish Ballet Co. was a breath-taking experience for those who crowded in Fulton Chapel that night.

The Artist Series provided a variety of entertainment this year as the campus saw Catherine Cornell and Bryan Aherne in "Dear Liar" as well as hearing Leonard Pennario present a wonderful concert.

RETURN, REUNION, REGISTRATION

The first few days were madness.

Old acquaintances were noisily renewed among the elite upperclassmen. Freshman girls bore their sorority ribbons proudly, visible signs of the terrible Battle of Rush, while blue beanies sprouted on the gleaming heads of freshman boys like mushrooms on a rainy morning.

Freshmen stumbled glassy-eyed through Orientation.

Then everybody stumbled glassy-eyed through registration.

"I'm sorry but this section is full. I'll sign you up for K hour. It meets at 2:30 on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday . . . What do you mean go home on Friday?"

"Two, three, and four cards, puhleez."

"You need six more hours of a natural science. Now you can take Physics at this hour."

Everyone but the dog-catcher welcomed the students as "$" shone in the eyes of all of the merchants with the advent of a new school year.

Wide-eyed freshmen leave whatever they were doing in the dorms to run outside and find out where the music was coming from. As they saw the Rebel band marching smartly down the street, hearts beat a little faster and they began to know the feeling of being a Rebel.

"How do I write $197.50 out in words?"

Then it was over. Somehow, through the maze of blind alleys and strewn paper, everybody had a schedule of classes, such as they were.

The City of Oxford threw its Welcome Rebel Party on Thursday night. Students trooped obediently down to the square, and the basic chase had officially begun.

The Ole Miss band appeared in all its Fall finery, the cheerleaders whooped it up with wild abandon, and couples rocked 'till midnight.

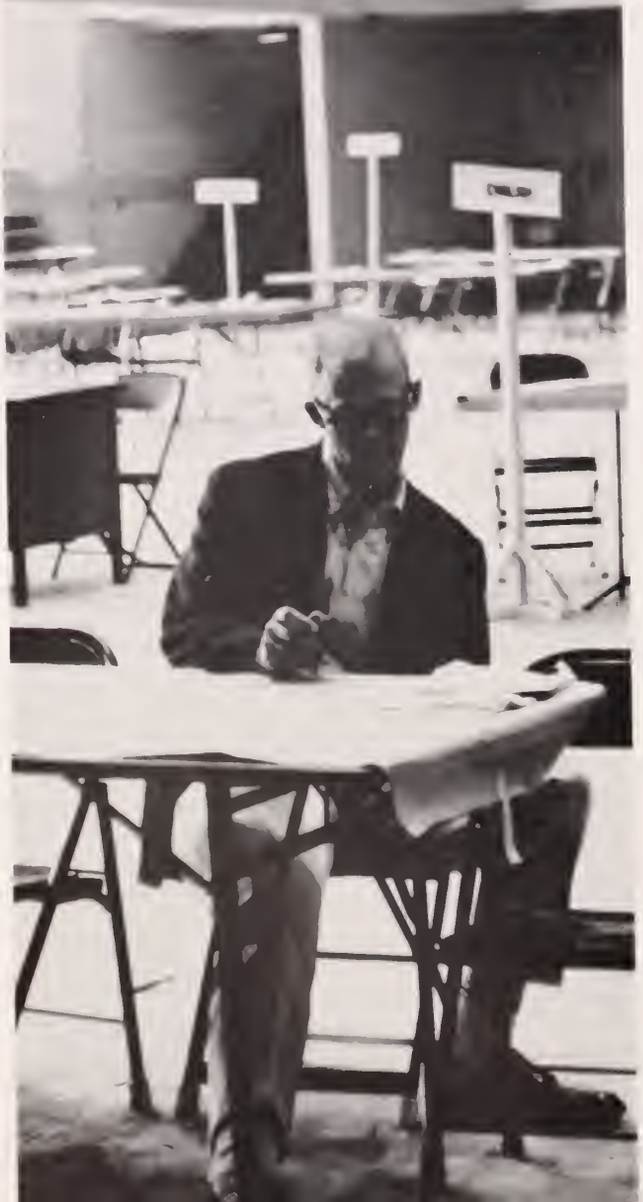
Despite the chaos, it was an auspicious beginning for an auspicious year.

Registration is never a noisy event, since each student and faculty member alike are too numb to make much noise. Contemplating the millions of forms that must be filled out, the students merely stare blankly into space as they are turned down in section after section.

Interminable lines confronted confused students as they tried to avoid certain professors and to get out early on Friday afternoon.

"Your seven, eight and nine cards, Puleeze." "Sorry, you've got to get out of line and finish filling out your seven card. . . . . and put it in ink this time!" "These chairs are for registration personnel only. I can't help it. . . . . use the floor if you have to have some place to write."

By late afternoon the hustle and bustle of the day has ended and an ominous quiet permeates the gym and hangs heavy over those who remained after-hours to try to salvage something from the schedule that they had originally figured out.



The Law School and the Pharmacy School got into the act with a football game of their own, playing in the Murder Bowl for the old Bloody Bucket. Here one of the politicians awards the Murder Bowl Queen her trophy for which she and her sorority fought even the annual editor.

"Y-a-a-a-a-a-a-a-a-a-a R-e-e-e-e-bels!"

FIRST RUMBLINGS OF THINGS TO COME

With the preliminary requirements, such as registration, dutifully fulfilled, the fun was about to begin.

The football fever hit Ole Miss and hit it hard. It built up slowly, like a tropical storm gradually picking up strength. A national sports magazine picked Ole Miss for the number one spot in the nation at season's end. Students talked about it, but many still wondered.

Freshmen were taught the basic forms of athletic exhortations, as only the Ole Miss cheerleaders could teach them.

"Louder, you freshmen, louder! Let's give 'em a Hotty Toddy they'll hear in Memphis! Louder . . . louder . . . louder!"

And it grew. Sportswriters in the Memphis and Jackson newspapers sang the praises of the Ole Miss eleven. Tuesday became a red letter day, because then the AP and UPI released their national rankings. The name "Mississippi" began creeping up on the charts.

"Louder . . . louder . . . louder!"

Homecoming came. The campus was jammed with alumni and friends. They came back to see Ole Miss, to see tangible evidence of fond, sometimes hazy memories.

Lynda Lee came back and was the hit of the show. Hemingway Stadium rose to cheer her as she rode around the track, and she rose to cheer the team that was making the nation take notice.

Lynda heard the sounds, the alumni heard them, the students heard them. They went "Louder . . . louder . . . louder!"

"Once a Rebel, always a Rebel," and that's true even if you are Miss America.

The traditional Homecoming Bonfire raised the spirit to a fever pitch among the students md filled many an alumnus with nostalgia.

THEN . . . THE SOUND AND THE FURY

The spirit flamed.

Pat McRaney reigned as Homecoming Queen, then stepped back to watch Ole Miss annihilate hapless Tulane. Strangers walking over the campus that night saw strange and wonderful sights indeed. But there were few strangers.

With half the schedule completed, students began anxiously glancing northward to Memphis. Their thoughts were focused on a patch of green in the city known as Crump Stadium, where the Rebs would face one of their toughest tests against the rugged Arkansas Razorbacks.

Not to be left out, the school cafeteria put several pigs on display on the grounds, and ceremoniously roasted the luckless animals.

"Arkansas could be rough, you know. And then there's LSU the next weekend."

"Aaah, don't sweat it."

And they didn't. Minutes after the Arkansas victory, some nameless student first uttered those thundering words, "We're Number One!", and it grew and grew into a mighty, unified chant, and they took this chant and went to Baton Rouge with it, after the most emotion-ridden week of pep rallies in the school's history.

And they brought it back with them, muted perhaps, but still powerful and heartfelt.

It erupted more violently than ever the next weekend when news of LSU's defeat reached anxious, Rebel ears.

Louder . . . louder . . . louder.

Squeals filled the stadium as two beautiful young ladies walked gracefully onto the football field. No one knew who the Homecoming Queen was to be. Then, as the roses were presented to Pat, the squeals from the KD's grew deafening.

No one knows exactly why the pajama parade was started, but everyone figures that some smart coed wanted to see what her lover-boy looked like before she married him. Looks like one girl likes what she sees!

"From Peabody's lobby . . ."

"And so right after she gave his pin back—it was her, you know—she told me that he . . ."

"Hee hee! You young whippersnappers think you can put something over on us folks up here, but you can't."

Then it was Memphis again.

A small eastern team named Syracuse had bedazzled the damyankee sportswriters, but an Ole Miss victory over Tennessee, the team that finished the job the Rebs had started on LSU two weeks earlier, would put Ole Miss at the top of the pile in the eyes of every true Southerner.

The students invaded the staid Hotel Peabody, and the pep rally rattled the beams in the ceiling.

"Gimme an 'O'!"

"O"

It was bitter cold at Crump Stadium, but the Rebs were a good thirty points hotter than Tennessee. Long after dark, joyous Rebel yells echoed through deserted Memphis streets.

The State game came, but it was only a formality. The season was over, but the Sugar Bowl lingered on. The flame of spirit, which had flickered dangerously at LSU, rose up and consumed the Tigers in New Orleans.

It was the perfect ending to a perfect year.

But life went on. Activity in the grill seemed a little subdued with finals approaching, and such tedious affairs as parking tickets were hard to take, but there they were.

A rare snow blanketed the campus shortly after the Christmas holidays, and then exams brought activity to an abrupt halt.

After exams, students returned to the campus with the realization that this year at Ole Miss was one they would always remember.

Louder!

Everyone flocked to the grill. Even some professors, but they kept their back to the camera.

YES, BUT THE MEMORY LINGERED ON

This first snow brought out the childish element of the studentbody as that small group of kids threw snowballs at anything that moved. Later snows found fewer and fewer snowballs beingthrown, but their absence is attributed to a tiring of the snow and not to a maturing process.

The loud, steady beat of a rock-and-roll band; the stifling heat that is generated by a hundred or so constantly moving bodies; the cool, refreshing drinks; the constant breaking; these and many other things go to make up an Ole Miss party.

The "sophisticates" can be found everywhere.

SATURDAY SOIREES, WEEKEND FORMALS

The faculty teas give the Chancellor a good chance to get to know many of the students.

Like little girls, parties come in all shapes and sizes. Name a type of social affair and you can bet that sometime during the year Ole Miss students had one.

Informal, roof-raising fraternity and sorority dances were there in abundance. The ASB even threw in a few on the side.

The ROTC units got into the swing of things with their Hearts beat a little faster as formal dresses are donned, flowers are received, the handsome date arrives, and finally the dance begins.

military balls, and the addition of uniforms lent an air of prim decorum.

If you go for tuxedos and full dresses, the Spring Formals should have satisfied your appetite.

Faculty teas afforded numerous chances for faculty-student fraternization, and didn't hurt grades much either.

Date suppers were also scattered liberally throughout the year.

The grace and beauty of a Southern lady in her flowing evening dress is not even marred by the "bopping" that is an integral part of every formal dance.

If the many problems and activities of college tended to pull students away from a daily religion, the whole experience of learning, of searching for Truth, reminded most of them of the deeper significance of their surroundings. Denominational groups and the "Y" offered opportunities for fellowship and expression; the wisdom of leading religious figures was brought from throughout the country; and churches provided continuous religious meaning through the year.

At the center, however, was the individual Ole Miss student who strived to preserve his own religious identity and integrity, who strived to maintain, despite all other forces, the right relationship between his Maker and himself.

The Religious Emphasis Speakers take out time from their busy schedule to lead discussion groups in the dormitories.

. . . AND ON THE SEVENTH DAY

Students and faculty alike join in active partieipation in the services and the work of the Churches.

The well-used Bible can be found tucked away amid the school books of many students as it takes its place as an important part of the growth of the students.

DORMITORIES

The rumbling of the coke machines is one of the constant sounds of dormitory life. There is also the occasional thud as the poor machine receives a kick in its vitals for the failure to disgorge a coke.

The most depressing place in the world is the cafeteria in the morning for breakfast; and yet the atmosphere and the food improves with the other meals. Perhaps it is not the cafeteria so much that is depressing in the mornings as it is just mornings in general!

Everyone pitches in to help when one of their number is fortunate enough to be able to go to a big formal. Everything from hoops to the dresses themselves are borrowed as each girl tries never to be seen in the same dress twice.

FORMED THE NUCLEUS

From fall registration to spring finals, campus life revolved around the dormitories. From rooms always too hot or too cold, students made their way to the cafeteria for endless varieties of hamburger, and then to classes or to the library. At night the dormitories were scenes of painstaking preparation for big dates and later for post-date comparison and criticism. The rooms may have been crowded, and the vending machines may have worked only at times; but the dormitories were lived in, and they are remembered.

The soft music played by the new music system that has been installed has a very good effect, but even good music is not enough to soothe one after the effects of a Mexican Meat Stick.

Pack upon pack of cigarettes are smoked each day as boys discuss the problems of the world in their daily bull sessions.

The selection of which pastry with which to finish the meal and stave off indigestion is a serious matter.

The silence of a room in which boys are studying is broken only by the clatter of a typewriter. This is the sort of thing that breaks up roommates and causes life-long enemies.

TWO STUDENTS PER ROOM, PLUS ONE

The walls of the girls' dormitories hide many mysteries, the secrets of which the men are better off not knowing—as this picture so vividly shows.

When a girl accepts a boy's fraternity pin, she makes a big decision, and many new and exciting things happen to her; not the least of which is her clothed trip to the showers.

Behind the dorms on sunny days many boys were found sprucing up their cars for the big weekend that was always ahead.

The rooms were too small and crowded. There was too little closet space. The halls were noisy. The Coca-Cola machines worked only sporadically. The housemothers were strict . . . There were many complaints and little praise. But in the dormitories many students were their own masters for the first time. There, old prejudices against national and religious groups were forgotten. And in the dormitories friendships were made that were to last far longer than the years at Ole Miss.

Burning the midnight oil was only bearable when there was a lighted cigarette in one hand and a cup of coffee within reach.

All the males wonder where the cinderellas get their fancy gowns, but the boys would never think of such an unromantic place as the attic of the dorm.

STIMULANTS, STRIFE, AND STUDY SESSIONS

Dexedrine-created zombies wandered through the halls at four in the morning. Studies were forgotten for lengthy conversations ranging from Faulkner to Metalious, from Freund to Father Divine. Locked doors hid beerbusts and poker parties. Crafty and devious plots were directed toward third roommates. Girls, "just a teensy-bit late," pleaded with housemothers. Roommates borrowed each other's clothes and quarrelled over drawer space.

Almost all Ole Miss students lived in the dormitories for at least a year. There they studied, primped, ate, complained, talked, and slept a little. And they perhaps remembered the dormitories longer than they remembered anything else at Ole Miss.

The same glare of the light over the lavatory that blinds a person early in the morning while he is washing his face lights his face late at night so that he can see to primp for an important date.

"What's that? Of course I do, honey; you know I do. I can't tell you now; there's some stupid girl here and she might hear me. Of course I'd be embarrassed! You know, with the girls here and all . . . they might kid me about telling you."

This young lady must have been studying right after room check, because surely everything isn't normally in such good order.

THEY FOLLOWED THE CALL OF THE

Trips and vacations were a vital part of Ole Miss. Students sought the play of Memphis, New Orleans, the Haba, Marks, Sardis, and a hundred other places. It was both easy play and hard play. It was both light and a determined means of escape. It carried students from sandy beaches to Bourbon Street. It carried them in cars and trains to support the football team. And it carried them home. Students emptied the campus Fridays and filled it again Sundays.

It was a happy world of a thousand places and a million forms. And they were better for it.

After four years at Ole Miss a student learns how to pack a car efficiently.

The chartered train that followed the football team was filled with persons with a variety of reasons for being there. Most came for the party that would certainly be there, some came for the trip, and a few came to see the ball game; but they all were tired and very depressed when it was over . . . not to mention a bit hung-over.

Every small town between Oxford and Baton Rouge heard the Rebel yell and a "Hotty Toddy" as the more "spirited" rooters leaned out of the train yelling at old ladies and young children.

OPEN ROAD

The Sugar Bowl found the Rebels seeing the New Year in in gay New Orleans and enjoying all that its populace had to offer . . .

It must be Friday afternoon.

Those special trains didn't have the best cuisine in the world, but the liquid refreshment made up for it.

WEEKDAY EXCURSIONS AND ESCAPES

In addition to planned parties and functions, students availed themselves of other, though somewhat limited, social outlets.

The Oxford restaurants usually found that a quorum of their patrons were Ole Miss students. Well-to-do young men could often be found with their dates in these establishments, but more sober-headed individuals avoided the practice as much as possible.

The Oxford theatres and drive-inn did a bang up business with students.

Those who tired of local facilities made numerous, gay trips to Marks or the Haba in search of bigger game, which they almost inevitably found.

And the adventurous kept a road map to Memphis within easy reach at all times.

Students at Marks manifested their feelings and "spirits" in many different ways; some were loud and happy while bowling and others were pensive while the rest just were.

Damn, I'm almost late!

If Bo is late again I'll kill him!

Two, please.

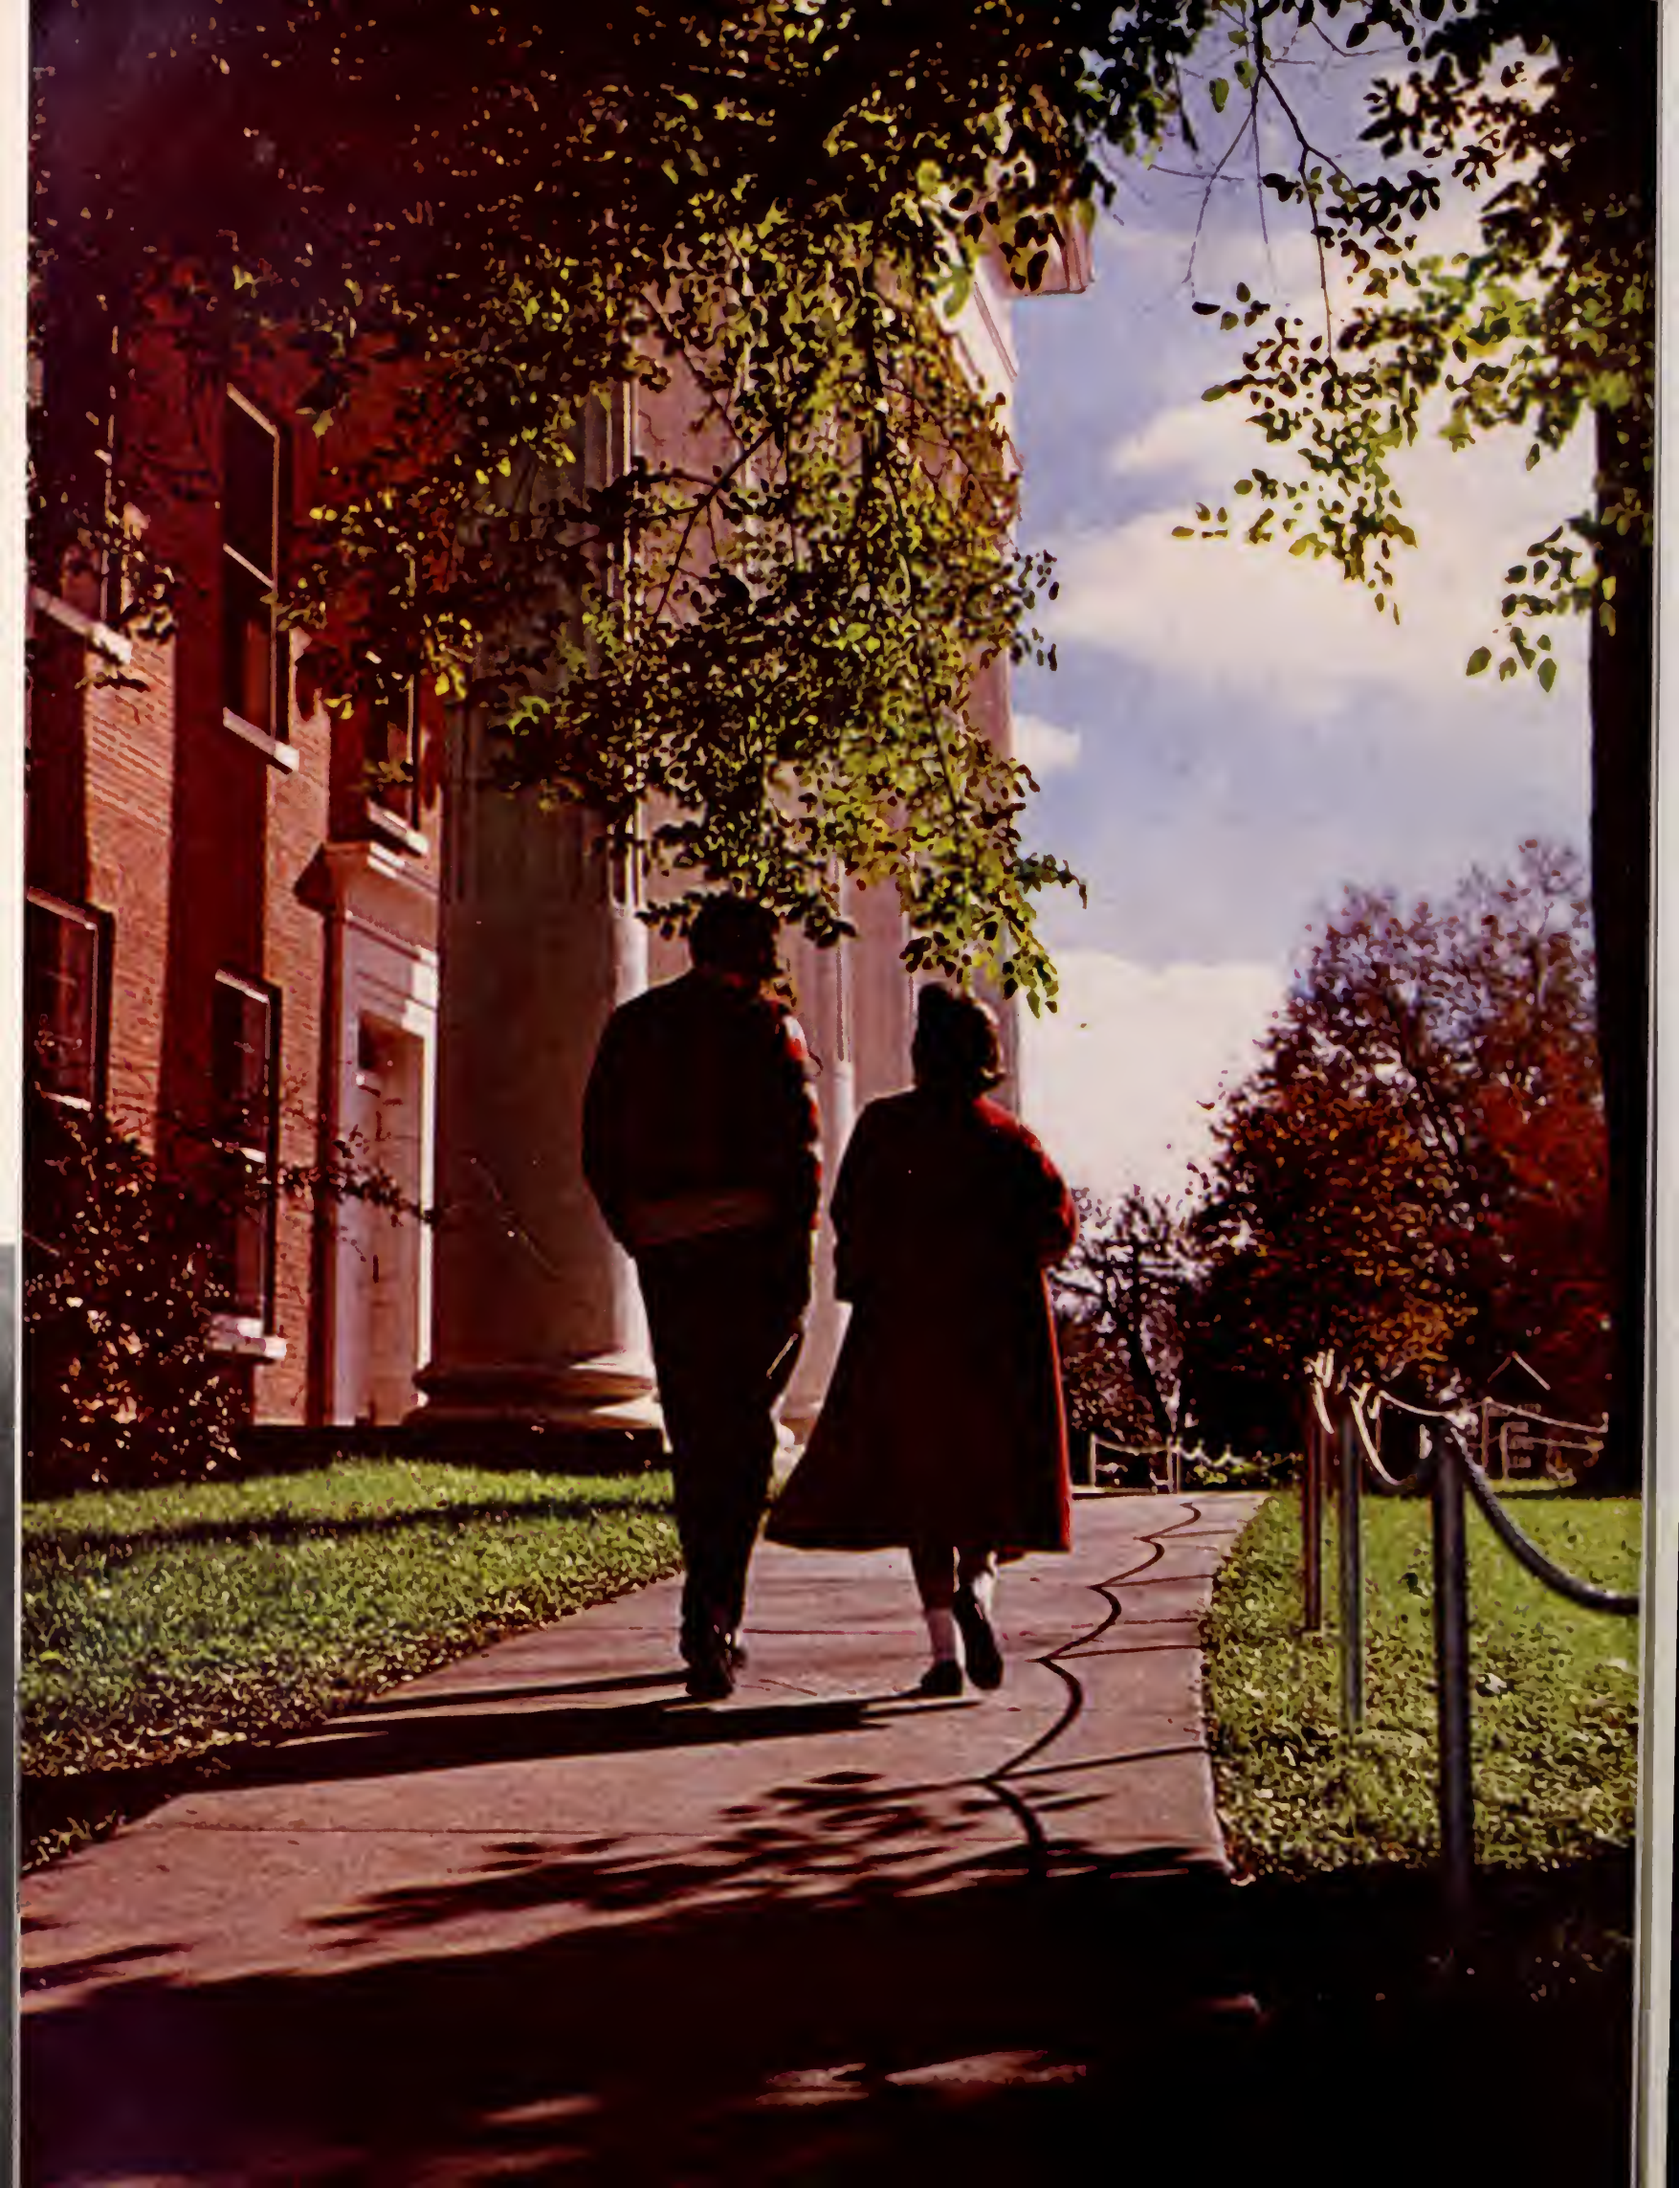
On Sundays the faculty and people of Oxford went to the cafeteria for an inexpensive meal while the students flocked to the downtown restaurants.

Many a young man's heart has been broken as he hears his date order the large shrimp cocktail and the filet mignon. The girls seem to starve themselves for days when they know that they have a dinner date coming up.

And then to the drive-in for a drink.

And then?? Hummm!

And then: goodnight



60 | UNIVERSITY

With the Capital dome in the background, Governor Barnett takes time out from a busy day to pose for these photographs for the annual.

THE GOVERNOR OF MISSISSIPPI, HONORABLE ROSS BARNETT

The Honorable Ross Barnett was elected to the governor's chair during the campaign this past summer. He has joined a long line of illustrious Ole Miss alumni to receive this high honor and great responsibility. Each student of the University is proud of the record that he has made in the legal profession, and we are eagerly awaiting the leadership and progress that he will give the State as its Governor. His familiarity with the problems and the hopes of Mississippians in every walk of life will give the State the representation that it needs. The faith that he has exhibited in the past in the youth of the State is encouraging to Ole Miss students. We are looking forward to the next four years under his leadership.

THE CHANCELLOR OF THE UNIVERSITY, DR. JOHN D. WILLIAMS

Since 1946 Chancellor Williams has led the University through happy times of expansion and discouraging times of tension caused by national problems. However, both he and the University have grown in stature in the eyes of all Mississippians as each year has passed. The fact that the Legislature, representing the aspirations and the fears of the people of Mississippi, has continued to appropriate money for the construction of buildings and for the expansion of the academic program of the University stands as a shining example of the faith that all Mississippians have in Chancellor Williams' ability to lead the University through the years ahead.

Unfortunately problems have arisen during the years since 1946, but fortunately the University has had Chancellor Williams to direct the solutions. In each instance Chancellor Williams has acted with dignity and has preserved the integrity of the University and the freedom of the academic community. The students of the University are proud to have as their Chancellor a man who is at all times a Christian gentleman.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning is composed of a group of dedicated Mississippians who are willing to give up much of their valuable time to help guide the educational progress of their state. The students of the University do not often get a chance to meet any of the members of the Board personally, but each one of us is constantly aware of the work that they have done and are doing in our behalf.

The new buildings that are being constructed all around us and the other expansions in the physical facilities of the University are only a few of the many ways that we are reminded of their work. The most important manifestation of their faith in us students and our ability to think for ourselves came this summer. The action that the Board took in standing behind the faculty and staff of the University is far more important and is needed a great deal more than a million new buildings; for without the freedom to think and grow intellectually, the University would not be able to dignify its name and there would be no need for buildings of any kind. The students of the University are proud that we have such a Board of Trustees leading us.

DR. W. ALTON BRYANT

Working with the deans of the instructional subdivisions and with the Directors of the University is one of Dr. Bryant's major duties as Provost. He also coordinates the work of the various units of the Academic Division in matters of academic policy and faculty administration, and in the absence of the Chancellor serves as chief administrative officer of the University.

HUGH H. CLEGG

By directing the Department of Development and serving in a staff capacity as Assistant to the Chancellor, Hugh H. Clegg's major responsibilities are separated into three principal fields; public relations, news service, and development. His immediate concern, however, is with the furthering of the services, resources, assets and standing of the University. Much of the work of the Office of Development is accomplished through twelve committees of outstanding Mississippians and these committees are coordinated by the Director.

MR. E. E. DAVIDSON

Mr. E. E. Davidson, Comptroller, assists in the preparation of the University budget and reports periodically on financial matters to the Chancellor. He oversees the Department of Food Services, including the cafeteria and the Purchasing Department; Accounting Department, which receipts and disburses income, prepares the payroll, and keeps records; Bursar's Office, which receives student fees and maintains accounts; Department of Personnel, including faculty and staff; University Laundry; and maintenance of physical plant and grounds.

DR. L. L. LOVE

As Dean of the Division of Student Personnel, Dr. L. L. Love supervises the work of the Dean of Women, Director of Placement and Financial Aids, Dean of Men's Housing, Student Counselling Service, Director of Public Safety, Registrar, Director of the Student Health Service, and Director of Religious Life. Eight years ago Dr. Love was instrumental in organizing the Counselling Service, which helps students individually with educational, vocational, and personality problems.

LIBERAL ARTS

The Art Department provides a student with every possible media in which to express himself.

The College of Liberal Arts, headed by Dean A. B. Lewis, is the oldest division of the University. Presenting varied and extensive curricula in the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences, the broad study program of the College is an end in itself in guiding students toward intellectual and civic competence, and serves as a point of departure for students entering law, medicine, theology, and other professional fields; as well as for those who wish to participate in advanced study and research programs.

The University Scholars program has been instituted by the College to provide special instruction and encouragement for superior students.

Special Scholars classes are scheduled in some subjects and opportunities are offered for study and discussion with eminent faculty members and visitors brought to the campus for lectures, concerts, and forums.

The School of Law is the fourth oldest state-owned law school in the United States. Completion of its three-year program, compromised of a thorough grounding in the principles of jurisdiction together with actual practice of legal procedures, entitles its graduates to practice in any court of law of the state without further examination. Though an emphasis is placed on Mississippi law and practice, the student is thoroughly familiarized with the American and Anglo-Saxon legal tradition as a whole.

Activities of the Law School include the publication of the Mississippi Law Journal, in conjunction with the Mississippi State Bar Association. Two leading legal fraternities, Phi Alpha Delta and Phi Delta Phi, maintain active chapters on campus.

The School of Education offers courses designed to give the prospective teacher a broad liberal arts background combined with professional training gained in pre-service and in-service teaching programs on both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

University High School and Oxford Elementary School are available to students for observation and participation experiences prior to their off-campus laboratory semester, in which the city school systems of Canton, Meridian, Vicksburg, Clarksdale, Natchez, and Tupelo co-operate with the School of Education.

Up-to-date departments in Educational Research, Audio-Visual Education, and Counselor Education are maintained by the School as well as a Teacher Placement Bureau.

Dean of the School of Education is Dr. Forrest W. Murphey.

Sometimes the grade school children are confronted with real "cool" looking teachers, but the training both receive is valuable.

SCHOOL OF M

The new mechanical heart at the University Medical Center is just one of the many new pieces of equipment that makes it one of the most completely equipped medical centers in the South.

The School of Nursing is conducted in connection with the Med School so that the nurses can get training on the spot.

MEDICINE

Students must do a great deal of laboratory work in preparation for their degree.

Medical students are permitted to make rounds and watch the patient's recovery.

The School of Medicine, headed by Dr. David S. Pancratz, has its headquarters in Jackson at the University of Mississippi Medical Center, completed in 1955. The Center consists of the eight-story, 335 patient bed University Hospital and the School of Medicine Building.

Besides the four-year course, fully approved by the American Medical Association and the Association of American Medical Colleges, leading to the degree of Doctor of Medicine, the School provides instruction for graduate degrees in the medical sciences, a training program in medical technology, and a training program in X-ray technology.

The Jackson Veterans Administration Hospital, the Mississippi State Hospital at Whitfield, and the Mississippi State Sanatorium at Sanatorium affiliated with the Medical School and co-operate with its teaching program.

The School of Pharmacy offers a four-year pre-professional and professional course, and its graduates are eligible for examination to practice pharmacy in any state.

Facilities of the School include a dispensing laboratory equipped for all the work of prescription-compounding, a pharmaceutical research laboratory, a pharmacy laboratory with equipment for the manufacture of the various classes of pharmaceutical preparations, a pharmacognosy laboratory, a laboratory for the study of bacteriology, and pharmacology laboratories.

Students in the School of Pharmacy make an annual trip under the direction of members of the faculty to visit well-known pharmaceutical and biological laboratories, where large-scale production of pharmaceuticals and allied products is demonstrated.

Dr. Elmer L. Hammond, Dean of the School of Pharmacy, has served in this capacity for over thirty years.

Up-to-date lab facilities provide students with a knowledge of the latest developments in their field.

Exacting measurements require a great deal of practice.

SCHOOL OF P

Learning to work the various formulas and to keep accurate records are necessary elements of a pharmacist's training.

Filling prescriptions requires a great amount of practice.

PHARMACY

Each student pursues his lab work with seriousness realizing that our health will depend upon him one day.

Many facilities are provided for students to use in learning to be good secretarial workers.

Secretarial student must learn to become proficient in shorthand.

The School of Commerce and Business Administration, headed by Dean Clive F. Dunham, is located in the historic Lyceum Building. Its facilities there include an accounting laboratory, a statistics laboratory, a type-writing laboratory, an office laboratory, and a calculating machine laboratory. A time-and-motion study laboratory has recently been installed for the use of students in production and personnel management.

In addition to its instructional program, the School maintains a Department of Research in Business and Public Administration. Within the Department of Research are the Bureau of Business Research, which makes periodic analyses of business condition in the state and conducts studies of particular economic problems, and the Bureau of Public Administration, which conducts research into specific problems of state and local government.

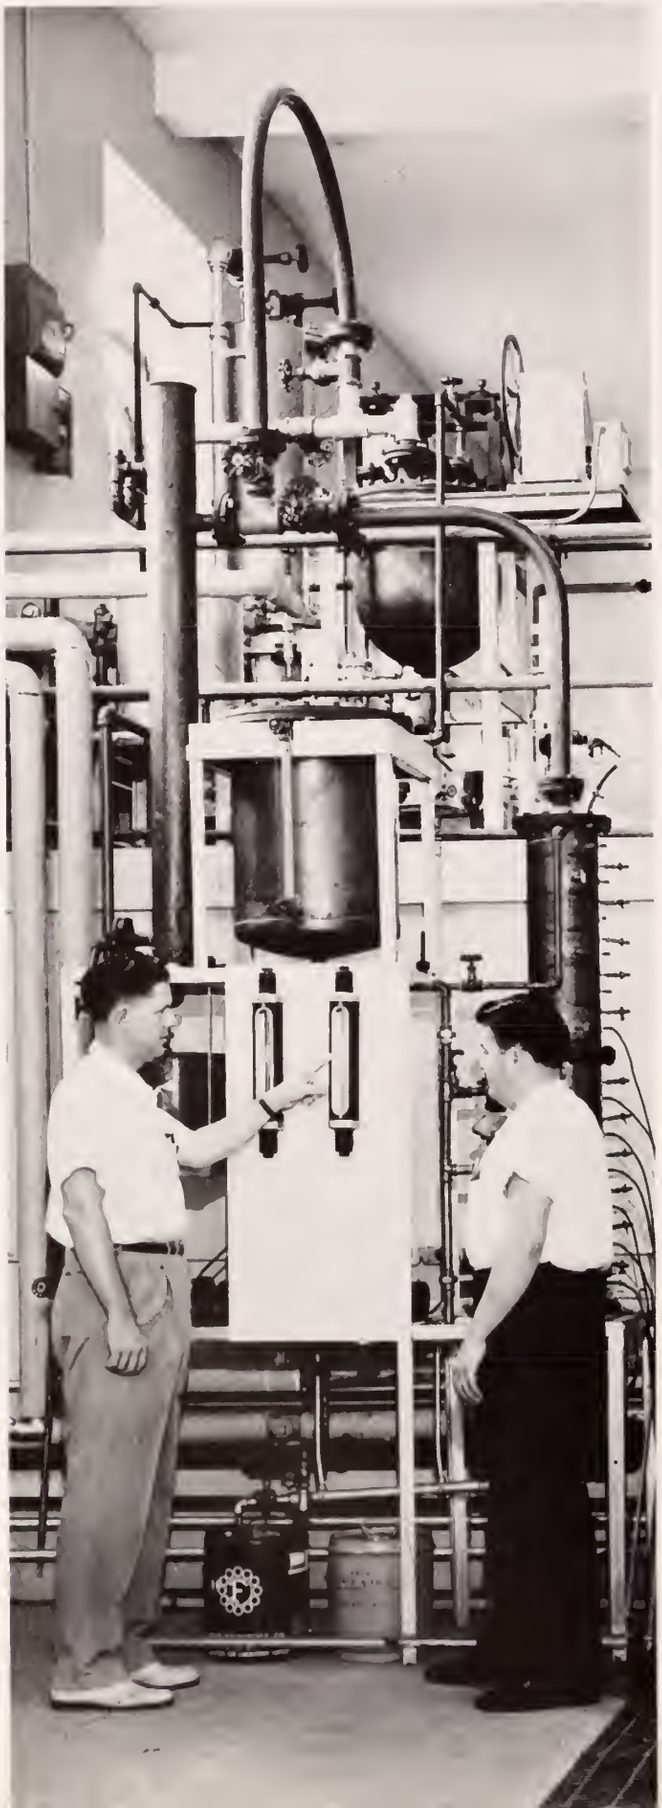
COMMERCE AND BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Preparing mimeograph sheets is necessary training for one who aspires to become a good secretary.

One of the journalism rooms provide a realistic atmosphere for students who are learning to become newsmen.

Machine calculation provides a challenge for students in the business school.

Graduate students in Chemical Engineering use many of the complex machines for their advanced experiments.



Psychology students have designed and used many different types of apparatus in their experimental work.

Graduates in music receive special attention.

THE GRADUATE

Unlimited facilities are present for students to try out all of their theories event to the extent of artificially raising their own plants and trees.

SCHOOL

The Graduate School was organized in 1927 to co-ordinate and administer graduate study and research at the University.

The degree of Master of Arts, Master of Science, Master of Education, Master of Business Administration, Master of Business Education, Master of Social Science, Master of Library Science, Master of Professional Accountancy, Master of Fine Arts, Master of Music, Advanced Master of Arts in Education, Doctor of Education, and Doctor of Philosophy in chemistry, education, English, and psychology are offered by the Graduate School.

Centers of graduate study are the Bondurant Graduate Building and the University Library, in which carrels are provided for each student's personal use. In addition to seminar rooms and auditoriums, these buildings house several special collections and libraries.

Dr. Dudley R. Hutcherson is Dean of the Graduate School.

THE OLE MISS IN 1960

In September work began on the 1960 Ole Miss. The editor had spent part of his summer vacation at the printer's laying out "the monster" and now the time had come to put together the pieces. Something new as far as Ole Miss annuals are concerned was being tried, a staff of workers would be used instead of just a few folks getting together to work. The staff had very little experience but they had the necessary desire to do a good job. While the hi fi played in the background the secretaries typed copy, arranged pictures, and performed other laborious tasks. Each of the editors had the difficult task of learning what was expected of them and then of doing it. The business staff had to keep books and records for a change, and this almost proved too much for them. Yeoman service was rendered by the photographers as they chased down people and things to photograph. The greatest event in their school year was the day one of the groups to be photographed showed up only 15 minutes late!

Everyone did more than their share of the work so that none had to over work. There were days when nothing seemed to go right, there were the days when we all had to worry with the class section photographer (not a staff member!), and there were days when the hi fi didn't work; but the year passed speedily by, an annual was published after all, and the staff had one helluva good time in getting it out.

THE MISSISSIPPIAN

Under the genial leadership of Stan (Horace Greely) Dearman, The Mississippian rambled through its 49th consecutive year of publication. Widely heralded as "Mississippi's most independent collegiate newspaper", editor Dearman never quite revealed whom the paper is independent of, to split a participle or two.

For the first time in recorded history, The Mississippian came out on Thursdays. Sometimes, that is.

Managing Editor Larry Speakes managed to fill up the more glaring blank spaces, while Business Manager Bobby Clifft handed out the checks in a manner reminiscent of Ebenezer Scrooge.

Assistant Editor Tom Hederman lent occasional assistance. News Editor Alicia Harper, Society Editor Julia Fite, and Feature Editor Emma Flautt beat out reams of copy, while Budgie Meek took the pictures.

Ed Bartusek scattered papers hither and thither as Circulation Manager, and Mac Dale kept advertisers in a rosy frame of mind.

Sports Editor Jimmy Robinson kept his ear to the ground for rumblings from the world of sports, and Sammy Alford penned the cartoons.

Paul Gray contributed his insanity as Feature Columnist, while Travis Stallworth kept readers chortling with his weekly efforts.

These, plus many, many other hard-working souls, brought the news to the students.

ABS DANCE COMMITTEE

The Dance Committee arranges the many fine ASB dances.

The A. S. B. Dance Committee is under the direct supervision of Howard Boone, a cabinet member in charge of Social Affairs. The committee is chosen by Dan Jordan, President of A. S. B., Howard Boone, and Bobby Russell, chairman of the committee.

The committee is organized to take care of several areas; "booking of the bands," welcoming, publicity, ticket sales, chaperones, and other incorporated service.

The committee functions as a group on deciding what entertainment the students will enjoy. Their decision is aided by suggestions that are gotten during a pre-school suggestion poll.

It is the responsibility of the committee to sponsor all street dances, A. S. B. dances, and concerts. This year the committee hopes to sponsor a concert each month. To start this series off "Joni James" appears in November, followed by "The Four Freshman" in December. No contracts have been signed for a January concert, but "The Dave Brubeck Quartet" has been scheduled in February.

The committee works in conjunction with the other schools in the state, through the aid of the Mississippi Inter-Collegiate Dance Committee of which Bob Russell is also chairman. By working together an artists series of engagements can be offered throughout the state, thus cutting down on the agents fee. Through this procedure our school can save as much as $500 per artists.

The A. S. B. Dance Committee is trying to bring to this campus the type entertainment the students like. In order to do so the committee tries to present a variety of artists. Only through student participation can this goal be realized.

Joni James received a standing ovation as she sang "Dixie" in her Rebel hat, and the Four Freshmen captured the hearts of all the Ole Miss students for the fifth time in the past six years.

The Editorial Board and Staff is composed of students in the School of Law chosen by the faculty for scholarship and ability in the field of legal writing.

Material printed in the Journal is composed of leading articles written by eminent lawyers throughout the country. Members of the Editorial Board and Staff also prepare student articles which contain a discussion of recent decisions and other matters of interest to the legal profession. Professor Arthur B. The members of the Moot Court Board are chosen from those students in the School of Law who have demonstrated outstanding scholarship and leadership ability. It is the function of the Board, under the direction of the Chairman, who is selected annually by the faculty, to conduct the moot court program in a proper and efficient manner.

The purpose of the moot court program is to familiarize students with the actual practice of law in the courts of Mississippi. It is formulated and conducted so as to stimulate such a practice as closely as possible, and thus give students experience in (1) following procedural rules as established by law in Mississippi, and; (2) applying substantive law to a given factual situation. Accordingly, students participate in both trial and appellate work, including interviewing clients and witnesses, preparing appellate briefs, and conducting courtroom arguments. Justices in appellate cases consist of one faculty member and two senior law students, and a well-known practicing attorney usually sits as judge in trial cases.

The Chairman of the Moot Court Board is Alfred P. Statham, and Professor William P. Murphy serves as Faculty Advisor.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

The University Players, under the direction of Dr. Charles M. Getchell and sponsored by the Speech Department, has established an outstanding record of drama work.

Finishing the 1959 session with Oscar Wilde's "By the Skin of Our Teeth" under the direction of Anne Daniel, the University Players finished a very successful year.

The first play of the 1960 session was "The Glass Menagerie." Upon completion of the performance, the cast under the direction of Dr. Getchell toured the Northeast Atlantic Air Force Bases where they gave numerous performances. A great deal of work and time was devoted to this trip, but the cast and Dr. Getchell thoroughly enjoyed the many thousands of miles which they traveled.

The second play of the 1960 session was Karel Capek's "R. U. R.," a science-fiction melodrama under the direction of Miss Daniel. "Berkeley Square" under the direction of Dr. Getchell was the first play of second semester followed by O'Neal's "Great God Brown."

This year was certainly a success both nationally and on campus.

PARADE OF FAVORITES AND BEAUTIES

It was easy for the males on campus to tell that the Parade of Favorites and Beauties was nigh, because everyone was invited to date suppers. The girls were suddenly very nice and quite sweet. Those boys with keen powers of perception were able to realize that this was the only time of year in which the girls are really nice to the opposite sex. They don't even match this performance during elections, and that is really saying something.

Finally the long-awaited night arrived. All the boys went to one of the many date suppers; and then they all fought to get to Fulton Chapel in time to get a good seat. The stage was decorated very beautifully, but the set for the beauties looked as if it had been inspired by some of the paper-throwing pep rallies that had been going on the week before. Each girl staggered onto the stage to show off her new dress and to try to smile her way into the hearts of those present.

After the last girl had made her appearance and the finale was over, the girls tried to get their date's ballot so that they could be sure that their girls won. Not only did each sorority have to vote for all their own girls, but also did they designate the other girls for which they were to cast votes. This, of course, insured each group that only the obvious ones would get votes beside their candidates. Some of the stronger minded boys refused to give up their ballot. They were right, of course, but they won't get invited next year.

PAUL NEWMAN SELECTS THE BEAUTIES

The Parade of Favorites and Beauties was one of the biggest events of the year. Thirty one young ladies were nominated by their sororities and dormitories to participate in the Parade of Favorites. Wearing cocktail dresses and escorted by Mr. Walker Watters or Mr. Lee Howe, each girl stepped from behind a mask onto the stage for all the campus to see. The students voted for the ten they wished to see get this high honor, and the ten with the greatest number of votes was selected.

Stepping onto a beautiful stage designed by Mr. Charles Inzer and Miss Mary Ann Vickery, each young lady who was in the Parade of Beauties was greeted by Mr. Robert Khayat or Mr. John Whitworth to be escorted down the curving stairway that was on stage. From these twenty three ladies ten were selected.

A secret committee of students and faculty selected the five girls that they thought to be the most beautiful of the ten selected by the students. Pictures of these girls were taken by Mr. Robert Alexander of Granada. These pictures were sent to Mr. Paul Newman who had graciously consented to rank the girls. On the back of each photograph Mr. Newman gave an alphabetical designation for the ranking of each girl. The results are on the following pages.

Dear Miss Fletcher:

Photos of five lovely Mississippi coeds have been handed to me, to select the loveliest among them. I am greatly complimented, and at the same time I find it an exceedingly difficult choice--they are all so lovely.

Nonetheless, I have done so, and have indicated by the letter "A" on the reverse side of one folder the one among them whom I would choose--if I must.

My warmest best wishes to you and to all of the young ladies. And thanks so much for asking me.

The highest honor that can be bestowed upon an Ole Miss student is to be selected to the Hall of Fame. Members of the Hall of Fame are chosen on the basis of leadership, scholarship, loyalty, spirit, devotion, and service to the University.

The selection is conducted in such a manner as to be entirely free from campus politics. A Selection Committee established by the Campus Senate sends out requests for nominations to the persons holding the 12 most important positions on the campus. Those students nominate twenty-four students to make the actual selection. The twenty-four students who are elected then vote for the six persons on the campus whom they feel deserves this great honor. The six students who receive the greatest number of votes from the committee of twenty-four are the students who are selected.

Those students chosen for the 1960 Hall of Fame are: Marjorie Bloodworth, former president of WSGA and ASB Secretary; Stanley Dearman, Editor of The Mississippian; Charles Flowers, Unanimous choice, football All American; Dan Jordan, President of the ASB; Robert Khayat, Col. NAVAL R. O. T. C.

The purpose of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps, which was established at Ole Miss in June, 1946, is to train and qualify carefully screened and selected young men for commissions as Ensign in the United States Navy or Second Lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps. Ole Miss is one of fifty-two outstanding colleges and universities in the nation selected to augment the United States Naval Academy in graduating officers for these two services. The NROTC students pursue their selected major field of endeavor, as do their civilian contemporaries, and also study professional Naval and Marine subjects.

Not all of the Midshipman's time is spent in the classroom and lab. Approximately eight weeks each summer, the Ole Miss Mids spend their time on summer training cruises on active duty.

Upon graduating and commissioning, the new officers go to assignments aboard ship, flight school, or bases all over the world.

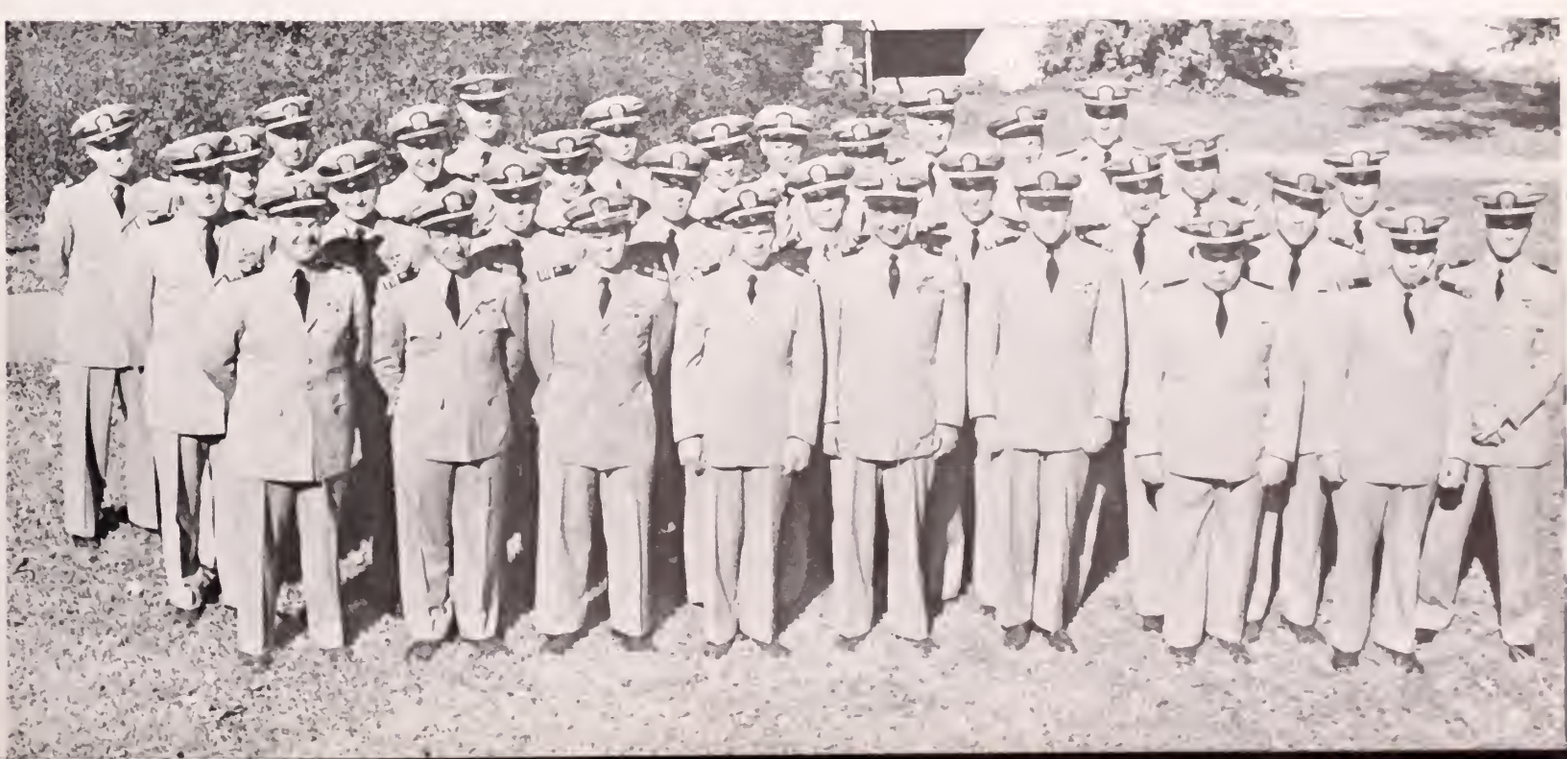
NESEP STUDENTS

To meet the challenge of the increasing demand for personnel trained as engineers and scientists to cope with the problems and complexities of modern day warfare, the Navy Department established the Navy Enlisted Scientific Education Program. This program was established here at the University the fall semester 1958, and is designed to provide a college education leading to a baccalaureate degree to Navy and Marine Corps enlisted personnel that possess outstanding qualifications. Upon completion of four years of study in the broad fields of science and engineering these enlisted students will be eligible for a commission in the Navy or Marine Corps.

FIVE TERM TRAINING PROGRAM

The Five Term College Training Program was initiated in 1945 by the Secretary of the Navy. Its purpose is to provide commissioned officers of the Regular Navy in the rank of Lieutenant Commander and below with the opportunity to receive academic training equivalent to five terms of College-level education. Officers assigned to the program will receive an education equal to that given to officers who are graduates of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. At present there are forty officers of the wartime navy enrolled in this program here at Ole Miss. Upon completion of their present studies here, these officers will return to duty assignments within the Naval Establishment on ships and stations, both in this country and overseas.



AIR FORCE R. O. T. C.

Air Force Reserve Officer Training has been in progress at Ole Miss since 1947. For this purpose the Air Force furnishes five officers and four airmen. As the Department of Air Science they are supervised by the University and Air Force ROTC Headquarters.

The primary purpose of this department is to select and train potential officers for the Air Force. This is accomplished through both regular class study and leadership laboratory exercises.

In the first two years academic study is devoted to airpower and its importance to the security of the nation. In the final two years, in the advanced course, stress is placed upon Air Force procedures and development of leadership and communication abilities.

The senior cadets who are selected for pilot training are given 36 hours of flying training at the University-Oxford Airport. All cadets are offered the opportunity to participate in orientation flights in late-type military aircraft and to observe the application of principles learned in the classroom and leadership laboratory. In addition, all advanced cadets attend a four week summer training unit at a regular Air Force Base.

One hundred victories in 13 years. That's Johnny Vaught. This personal record stands as best in the SEC and general contention holds it best in the nation.

Coach Vaught would, however, attribute a great part of this personal success to his coaching staff who are undoubtedly without peers in their capacity for molding young athletes.

Coach Swayze lends himself to the job of selecting only the finest of high school prospects and these young men under the tutelage of Coach Davidson complete their one year apprenticeship which readies them for the name of Rebel.

In the hands of the varsity coaches the Rebel journey men complete their training and become the artisans capable of turning out 100 victories in 13 years.

Teamwork of the players on the field wins the games, and teamwork of the coaches fields the players who win the games.

When the Rebels of Ole Miss emerged from the 1959 baseball season bearing the championship crown, and when the curtain was rung down on the football season of the same year, and when the Rebels were referred to as the greatest team in a decade of SEC play, there were perhaps those who wondered, "What men or gods are these. . . .?

There is little that may be said or done concerning the selection of all stars from such a stellar cast. Indeed every man who donned the red and blue this year was a champion and an all star. If, perhaps, some stars shone more brightly than others, it was not because they were great players, they had to be much more than that. To receive recognition as an all star on an Ole Miss team in 1959-1960 means that these men were pressured by surrounding greatness to achieve even greater heights, and in doing this they truly deserve this and every other recognition.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

At first sight the record of the Freshman team may not seem at all impressive. Defeated thrice in three starts, first by LSU, 15-8, then by Vanderbilt, 12-7, and finally by State, 35-6, the season might even be deemed disastrous. Even though, assuredly, no member of the Ole Miss Coaching Staff, and least of all Coach Davidson, would never apologize for defeat, it may be safely stated that it is not the purpose of a freshman team to win games.

These young men are apprentices, they are quickly learning the trade of football and more important they are learning to be Rebels. Do not judge them now; for two or three years later they shall constitute a team as great and proud as the name they shall bear—Ole Miss Rebels!

rejoicing—there was merry-making—the proud contrast that inevitably follows in the wake of destruction—for when the red and blue marched into New Orleans town it was with the greatest solemnity. Chins were set with determination and each countennance was knit with revenge—revenge for a cold, wet Halloween. That night they had been defeated but they were proud. They knew that they were number one and were grateful for this one chance to prove it. When they were stopped eleven yards shy and a repetition seemed forthcoming, no one—no true Rebel doubted. Then as the half neared completion, the 43 yard Gibbs to W'oodruff aerial ruptured the last line of defense and the Rebel host rushed through, never again to be denied.

A Franklin to Grantham pass for 18 yards counted for a second score but the real prize was yet in store. The terrible Chinese wall, as yet unconquered, crumbled and fell in the face of a Franklin-Blair aerial attack.

Many names stood out in the 21-0 victory, but all these men were Rebels, and it was the number one Rebels who won the Battle of New Orleans.

Two renowned figures headed west: Khrushchev to Los Angeles and Colonel Rebel to Houston, and each learned an important lesson—"You can be a lot tougher when you're at home." Naturally the Colonel was satisfied with his 16-0 victory but it was not as impressive as last year's 56-7 homecoming triumph over these same Cougars.

45,000 fans were electrified by Charlie Flowers' 44 yard run on the first play from scrimmage. A 15 yard penalty brought the Rebs to the Cougar 15, but here the assault bogged down when a Khayat field goal was wide.

It was not until the second quarter that the Ole Miss machine began to function properly after its initial tilting.

Dewey Partridge (43) mauls a Cougar end as Kirk (53) rushes in to assist.

Breaks your heart, doesn't it, Larry?

Bob Khayat snatched down a Cougar pass and galloped 52 yards down the sideline to the Houston 7. Four plays later "Jake" Gibbs skirted end and with a successful conversion, the shutout had begun.

In the third quarter Mr. Flowers ate up 32 yards in six gulps and placed the pigskin on the Cougar one, whence Bobby Franklin crashed the double stripes. For the second time Khayats' toe was denied as the EP veered wide, but on a succeeding Ole Miss drive he redeemed himself and gained the lineman of the week award with a spectacular 32 yard field goal to put the game away 16-0.

Bob Khayat (76) prepares to boot one of his famous field goals. This time a 32 varder.

Three television favorites assisted the Rebels in topping the Wildcats of Kentucky 16-0. "Maverick", otherwise known as Bobby Franklin, and "Rifleman", alias Jake Gibbs called the Ole Miss numbers while Bob Benton, referred to in sports circles as "Mr. Clean" dusted off the Cat line.

Even with such sterling assistance, the Vaughtmen were stymied for two periods, but in the third quarter 66,000 eyes were opened as two "Rifleman" aerials and a short sprint by Partridge set up Woodruff's 3 yard scoring plunge.

In the fourth quarter a stubborn Cat defense stopped the Rebs 13 yards shy of pay dirt, but again the golden toe of Bob Khayat split the uprights to roll the score up to 9-0.

Jake Gibbs (12) tears off a chunk of vardage with a neat assist by Flowers (41).

The hi-lite of the game came in the closing minutes when Coach Vaught sent in Doug Elmore to quarterback the squad. On the first offensive play of his career the tobacco-chewing Alabaman trampled down 52 yards of bluegrass for the final Ole Miss score and a 16-0 shutout.

Khayat set off the fireworks with a 41 yard field goal and presently Bobby Crispino added another six points on an 18 yard scamper. The Tigers' deepest penetration came as they marched to the Ole Miss 3 but a rugged Rebel line refused them further admission, as the first quarter ended 10-0.

Second quarter scores came on one yard plunges by Flowers and Elmore; and Woodruff added fire in the third quarter as he set up Crispino's second TD with a 56 yard jaunt to the 12.

Flowers crashed the goal line as the fourth quarter opened from 15 yards out and minutes later Blair followed suit from the one for the Rebel's final tally. A Gibbs-Brewer conversion put the finishing touches on the 43-0 victory.

The Rebel barrage, twice repelled in the first quarter, struck home when Johnny Mitchell and Jerry Daniels capitalized on a fumble at the Vandy 12. Thirty two thousand people turned out at Crump Stadium to witness the wanton slaughter of eleven Arkansan hogs. The bloody business resulted in a fall in cracklings of 28 points while Rebel stock still sold at a premium.

The first quarter was only 21 seconds away from conclusion when Charlie Flowers put the Rebs in the scoring column with a two yard plunge. The drive was good for 80 yards.

The second quarter had not advanced very far before Mr. Flowers rendered a repeat performance, climaxing a 20 yard drive. Lance Alworth had just jeopardized the Razorbacks' gristly hide when he punted for a one yard loss.

An intercepted pass and neat receptions by Partridge netted the Rebs a second score in the period, as the same Mr. Partridge leaped the line from the one.

The Last of the Ole Miss scores came in the third period terminating a 42 yard drive with Gibbs doing the honors around left end.

As the fourth period drew to a close, thousands of Rebel rooters felt a faint twinge of confidence as they dreamed of the headlines: "Halloweening Rebs Soap Rails and Dietzel Engine Careens to 3-0 Disaster." But then a galloping spook named Billy Cannon changed the complexion entirely as he blasted for 89 unexpected yards.

Rebel fans were crestfallen. Surely Khayat's 22 yard field goal which had stood the Rebels in good stead since early in the first quarter was no longer the margin of victory. Surely this was not the end.

There he goes! . . . Seems impossible, doesn't it?

Robert Khayat (76) and J. Robertson (79) move in to assist as unidentified Rebel on a tackle to show why LSU never penetrated beyond the Rebel 30 yd. line except for "that" punt return.

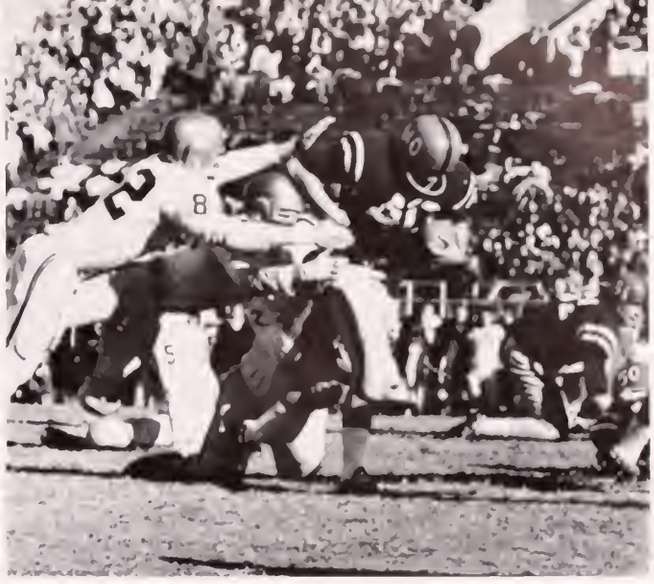
Doug Elmore didn't seem to think so as he entered the game after Cannon's score and quarterbacked the Vaught-men for 67 valiant yards. Rebel fans cheered like demoniacs as he placed the pigskin on the Bengal seven where it was first and goal. As fourth down arrived, it was still two yards shy. Some prayed, some cheered, some wrung their hands, but all to no avail. Elmore's roll out to left ended on the one yard line!

Our hats are off to Coach Dietzel and his crew for their homecoming triumph. Our hats are off as well to the Rebels. They played it hard, as hard as they could, and lost. There is no shame in that.

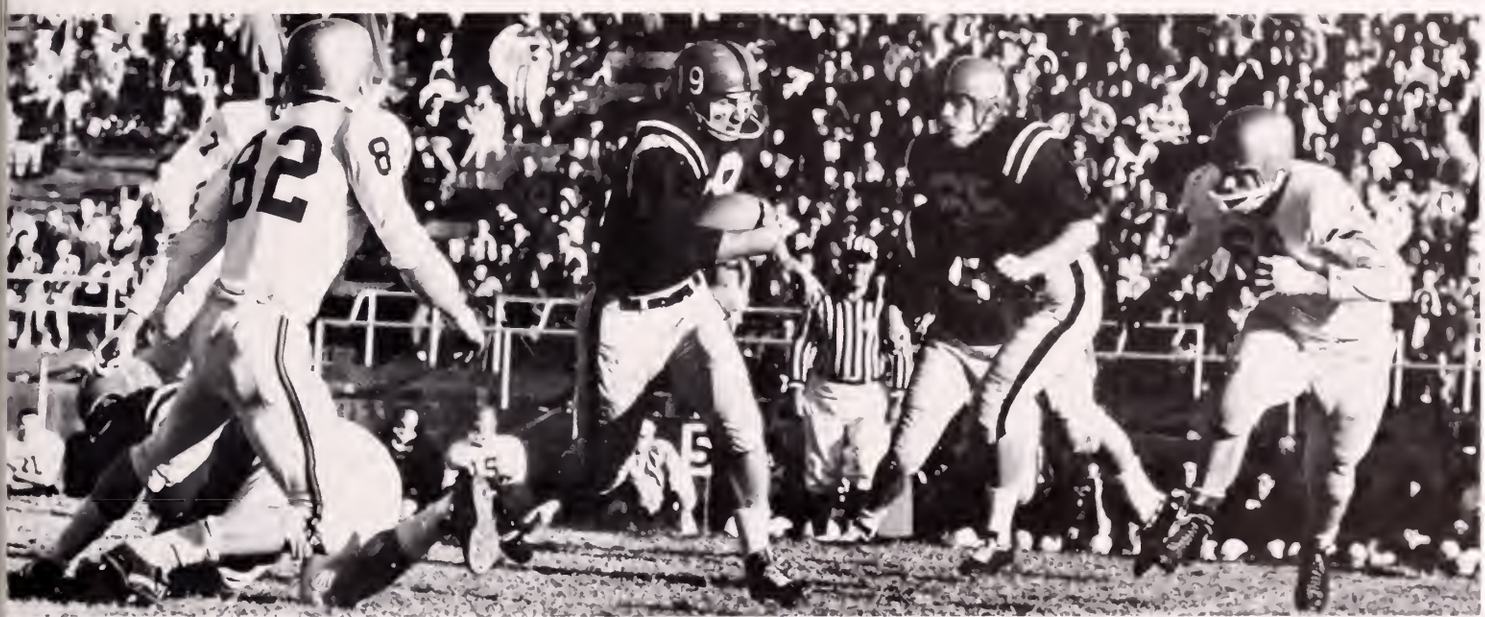
Charlie Flowers (41) throws a key block that springs George Blair (22) loose for a large gain against the Tigers.

The Rebels bounced back in fine form as they played the roll of fakers and charmed Chattanooga's Moccasins to the tune of 58-0.

Late in the first period Billy Brewer snagged a snake punt and raced 85 yards for the first score. Dewey Partridge covered a pitchout on the enemy 39 and in 7 plays Flowers bulled over from the one. Another short yardage plunge by Gibbs accounted for the third tally, climaxing a 54 yard drive. An interception by Jones and an Elmore to Hall pass ended the first half's scoring. All four of Khayat's conversions were good and the Rebs led 28-0.



Adams (40) blares through the arms of three—count 'em—would-be tacklers.



Doug Elmore (19) leaves the ground as he races for 17 yards through a tremendous hole made by the Rebel line.

After Billy Ray Adams' scoring plunge from the one, the remainder of the Rebel TD's were largely accomplished via the aerial route—Elmore to Hall for 6 and 2 points and Brewer to Goodwin for six with Doty receiving the toss for the E.P. The Orange Ogres of Tennessee, gorged on their previous week's repast of Tiger-meat, received a rude awakening in a cold Crump Stadium. The Rebels and Charlie Flowers in particular, apparently had not read about the vaunted Vol defense and made it look like a sieve.

Flowers ripped off guard to terminate the Rebel's first scoring drive of 70 yards, but at this stage Ole Miss hopes appeared short-lived; for minutes later a Flower's quick-kick was blocked and the Vols recovered on the Reb 7. Glen Glass promptly scored and the score was knotted 7-7.

With 42 seconds remaining in the half, the Rebels had the ball on their own 24 yard line. Looking like the pros, the Rebels covered 33 yards on a pass to Jimmy Hall—sent in expressly for that purpose—and then Robert Khayat broke the tie with a 43 yard field goal kicked at an angle and against a 10 mile an hour wind.

Khayat's toe was called upon thrice more in the second half as a result of a 7 yard scoring pass from Gibbs to Partridge, a run by Gibbs of 15 yards to paydirt and an 8-play scoring march of 67 yards climaxed by Anderson.

The Rebel band struck up the Tennessee Waltz as Cowboy Woodruff waltzed 37 yards to the Orange 4. Penalty plagued, the Rebels used two Gibbs' passes to add the final six points.

Fans chanted "We're Number One". The A.P. conceded second place, but what do they know?

All American Charlie Flowers bulks his way through the center of the State line showing that the only "All American" State has is an All American bench warmer!

It was particularly fitting that Coach Vaught's 100th victory as Rebel mentor should have been accomplished at the expense of our arch-rivals, the Rednecks.

Relentless slaughter was the order of the day as a Gibbs to Woodruff pass accounted for six, and a fumble on the ensuing kick off coupled with a 24 yard Gibbs to Partridge pass set up Gibbs' off tackle slant for the second score.

Penalties aided a 98 yard Rebel march with Flowers penetrating the Maroon barrier from 4 yards out, and before redneck rooters could swallow another dram of squeezings

Cowboy Woodruff (32) scampered 42 yards for a TD on this pass interception.

Even Ole Luke can relax as his beloved Rebels wrecked the Red Necks.

Gibbs passed to Daniels and Grantham had run the score to 27-0.

The second half was characterized by two brilliant displays of broken field tactics; the first a 37 yard jaunt and score by Gibbs, and the second a 42 yard pass interception by Woodruff which carried him into the end zone. 1959-60 OLE MISS BASKETBALL

Counting all factors, Ole Miss basketball in 1959-60 was the school's best in 22 seasons. The focus in final SEC standings was on fourth place, and the Rebels haven't known that lofty a perch in full-scale campaigning since 1937-38, which happened to be the senior (and All-America) season for Coach B. L. (Country) Graham.

Ole Miss won eight of 14 Conference games to trail champion Auburn (12-2), runner-up Georgia Tech (11-3) and third-place Kentucky (10-4). From start to finish there were 15 victories and nine defeats. With luck the season could have been better by at least four victories, but with sophomores manning at least two starting posts in every game, it was better than predicted—far better, in fact.

For a contrasting picture it is necessary that 1958-59's dreary figures be revived, when the Rebs won only seven of 24 games, were dead last in Southeastern standings with a 1-13 report. That was a hard-luck campaign, for sure, but hard luck never alters cold facts. The turnabout was remarkable. The Rebs won their first six games. They were never below a 50-50 pace in Conference results. Only once did they permit as many as three consecutive reversals, just two within the circuit. The tip-off was the early-December win past rangy Arkansas, a foe the Rebs hadn't downed since 1950-51. They hit on 50 per cent of their shots from the field (62-31), on 16 of 20 chances from the free-throw line. The outcome, in Little Rock, was 78-63.

There were other firsts—a first SEC win over Alabama since 1953-54 (the Tide was toppled 79-76 in a 1957-58-season tournament game); Auburn was spanked for the first time since 1955-56 as was Tulane in New Orleans for the first time since 1955-56.

For an efficiency note, two new team records were established, a 39.9 percentage high in field goal firing and a 75.2 entry from the free-throw line.

In order, the 8-6 Conference record was accumulated as follows: 1-0 (Alabama, 86-77); 2-0 (Auburn, 64-56); 2-1 (Vanderbilt, 58-66); 2-2 (Georgia Tech, 66-91); 3-2 (Mississippi State, 67-60); 4-2 (Tulane, 66-64); 5-2 (LSU, 76-61); 5-3 Kentucky, 43-61); 5-4 (Tennessee, 71-81); 6-4 (Florida, 90-81); 7-4 (Georgia, 65-63, overtime); 7-5 (Tulane, 43-57); 8-5 (LSU, 90-70); 8-6 (Mississippi State, 54-72).

The Rebs emerged from the 'Bama-team invasion smelling as sweet as a rose. They led all the way in both exchanges, by fat margins until late surges by both the Tide and Tigers narrowed score differences.

Veteran center Ivan Richmann, a 6-7 shotmaker, missed the first four league engagements and his absence in the deficit meeting with Vanderbilt cost the Rebs this one. The game was all even, 52-52, with 4:30 remaining, when the Commodores took advantage of a middle-lane defensive breakdown for three quick baskets and a safe lead. A 3-0 record at the start would have served the Rebs well throughout.

The team turned in four collapse-style performances, the first at Georgia Tech on January 11. The Engineers decisive margin pointed up one obvious deficiency, a lack of composite speed. As a unit the Rebels were not a set of whiz kids.

Ivan Richmann "Tips off" against State.

After initial standoff battling, the Rebs built a 14-point margin over Mississippi State in the January 16 home game, led by 34-22 at intermission, then had to stave off a final maroon thrust to win by seven, 67-60. The score contrasted vividly with the 23-16 slowdown loss of 1959.

Tulane was beaten in New Orleans on January 30 when Ole Miss, ahead at the half by 37-35, stretched its advantage to 10 points and absorbed the Wave's belated bid. The last Greenie basket at the final buzzer was a gift. In Baton Rouge two nights later, LSU was down by 36-29 at the rest stop, fought back into contention at 43-42 midway the second half, but was outdistanced in the stretch run.

Florida Gators tried in vain to get control of the ball.

Coach Graham's slowdown strategy paid early dividends at Kentucky but when three layup baskets were missed and 'Tucky countered with three similar breakthroughs which fell in, the Rebs had to alter plans, and the speedier Wildcats pulled away. Sharper inside shooting would have kept the Rebs in contention. With Tennessee in Knoxville on February 8, the 10-point score difference was established by the Vols quite early. The two teams battled evenly for the last 32 minutes.

At home after six road battles, surprisingly strong Florida and Georgia were felled after game-long struggles. The Gators led by 78-77 with 3:25 remaining when Richmann dropped in a fielder, a followup free throw, and Jack Waters contributed four quick points to send the Rebs into a foul-provoking deep freeze. Waters' 18-foot basket with four seconds left cinched the Georgia decision. The regulation game ended at 57-57.

Graham's troopers stumbled themselves in closing out the campaign. Firing at a 53.1 per cent field goal pace against Florida and 43.1 against Georgia, they were as cold as a penguin's kneecap against Tulane, this at home against a club they had handled on the road. After scoring on six of nine leadoff shots, they fizzled to a 12 of 53 pace the rest of the game and that's just 24.5 per cent. The fact that the Greenies drew only one first-half foul and six at 15.30 into the second half didn't help, either.

Louisiana State was beaten handily for a 2-0 series sweep past the Bengals (the scoring pace in this one was 46.7 per cent) in the season's final home showing, but at Mississippi State five nights later, on February 27, the Rebs stumbled again. Their finishing percentage gait was an exact 25 per cent—13 goals in 52 shots. The stunted showing dropped the team field goal percentage below 40 per cent for the first time since early December.

The loss to the Maroons was a sour coating to end the session, but it was a bright basketball winter, nonetheless, with overtones of better things to come. By and large the team was one of the league's youngest. On frequent occasions it was as effective and as successful as any, from the top on down. Auburn, the Conference champion, was beaten, remember, and Auburn dropped only two of 14 family games, only three overall. The league was well balanced and the chase for the title was topsy-turvy, the Plainsmen winning out on the night of final round-robin play. And they copped eight of a dozen SEC triumphs by a score difference of just 18 points.

December results found the Rebs downing Troy (Ala.) State, 79-71; Southwestern, 99-60; Arkansas State, 67-57; Chattanooga, 94-76; Arkansas, 78-63; Arkansas State again, 75-58. For the first loss, host team East Tennessee State scored at 79-60 in the Watauga Invitational Tournament in Johnson City. Tennessee Tech was shaded 37-36 in the consolation finals, this in overtime. Memphis State claimed a 96-57 verdict January 23 in Memphis and Chattanooga, dumped without undue strain at home, won at Chattanooga on February 9, 76-74. This was another game the Rebs let get away.

Keynoters in the abrupt change in fortune was Waters, a 6-4 junior who played at guard; Richmann; a pair of sophomore starters in 6-6 Sterling Ainsworth and 6-5 Bill White; Louis Griffin, a 6-7 senior who played at forward and center, and guards John King, Jamie Howell and Larry Wagster.

Tommy George Washington, a 6-5 forward, and sophomores Tommy Farley, a forward, and guards Danny Caldwell and Pat Patterson rounded out the 12-man squad.

Despite his painful back ailment, Waters finished second in Conference scoring with a 19.5-point average. At the halfway turn he was in front with a 22.7 average. He was unanimous All-Southeastern. He scored 469 points in 24 starts, hitting on 183 of 415 field goal attempts for a 44.0 per cent shooting average. He was certain to rank 1-2-3 nationally in free throw accuracy with a finishing percentage of 87.3—103 goals in 118 shots.

Richmann was All-SEC, third-team variety, and likely would have acquired higher ranking had he not missed action against Alabama, Auburn, Vandy and Tech. He led the Rebs in field goal accuracy with 48.3 per cent (203 shots, 98 goals) and in rebounding with an average of 10.4 per game. His 14.8 scoring average (296 points in 20 games) was second-high among Reb marksmen.

Ainsworth, a member of the sophomore All-Southeastern team, averaged 12.8 points in 23 games, scoring 295 points. He percentaged at 39.3 (270-106) in field goal accuracy and 75.5 (110-83) in charity-point firing. He was an outstanding rookie.

White drew equal billing as a newcomer standout. He was smooth and consistent in play operations, a strong rebounder and defensive agent. Averaging eight points a game, his percentages were 33.4 (188 shots, 63 field goals) and 72.8 (92-67).

Waters, Richmann, Ainsworth and White were basic starters. Other front-line contributors were King, Howell and Wagster, who alternated in the guard berth alongside Waters, and 6-7 Louis Griffin, a holdover starter playing at forward and center. Washington, Farley, Caldwell and Patterson drew occasional relief assignments.

Waters counted 28 points against Auburn, 27 against Florida and Georgia, had 10 other games in which he scored 20 or more points. Usually he was a marked man, assigned to key defensive agents.

Richmann counted 26 points against Tulane, the same total against Arkansas State, 24 against Chattanooga, 23 against Mississippi State. Ainsworth led scoring against LSU and Tennessee with 27 and 24-point nights. White's top show was 18 points against LSU, Wagster collected 21 against Tech, point nights. For other top individual showings, White notched 18 points against LSU, Wagster 21 against Tech, King 17 against Arkansas and Griffin 16 against Alabama.

For one closing statistic, only seven five-foul disqualifications were collected and this may be the lowest on record hereabouts. To contrast, the school high is 36 (1951-52) and the 1958-59 total was 27.

1959 SEC BASEBALL CHAMPIONS

In baseball, there is an ancient adage which was reflected in full measure by Tom Swayze's 1959 Ole Miss team. It tells that "strength down the middle" is basic in the building of championship teams. For the record, the 1959 Rebels were (1) All-Southeastern from catcher to center fielder, and (2) they captured every Southeastern title in sight.

It was Ole Miss' first overall SEC championship in baseball. Because Swayze, in his ninth season as Johnny Reb coach, was fielding rebuilt infield and outfield units, the title-taking came as a pleasant surprise. What happened was this: Ole Miss won 10 out of 13 Western Division games to cop divisional honors for the third time since 1954, leading defending champion Alabama to the wire by two full games. In the East-West playoffs with Eastern winner Georgia Tech, the Rebs lost the series opener—at home—to Tech in a 4-3, 10 inning decision, then stormed back in the two "blue chips" games staged in Atlanta, 8-5 and 11-7, to make the series win one of the year's big comeback stories. To make the second game triumph all the more remarkable, Tech went out front by 5-0 after an inning of play.

The All-Southeasterns were catcher Robert Khayat, a junior; pitcher Larry Williams, a junior; shortstop Al Bullock, a senior; center fielder Don Jobe, a junior; and third baseman Jake Gibbs, a sophomore.

After early-season home and road results, Swayze was hopeful concerning title chances, but only after the rebuilt Rebs had been able to break even in off-campus debate with Louisiana State and Tulane, the teams certain to be ahead of Ole Miss in preliminary training, did Swayze's hope become strengthened. For the full-season report against scheduled foes, there were 21 games and the Rebs won 16, taking serise decisions from LSU, 3-1; Tulane, 2-1; Alabama, 2-1, and Mississippi State, 3-0. The Conference and SEC records posted were the best in either division. Adding the East-West series totals the full-season count went to 18-6. The weatherman claimed four games, rain washing out engagements with Southeastern Louisiana, Mississippi State, Tulane and Alabama. The campaign story is best told by the listing of results, and note the nine-straight conquests and the 13-1 record posted after the first Tulane game:

Following the swing through Louisiana, the Rebs were 4-4 for the season and 2-2 in Conference combat. The nine straight wins, four of them against SEC members, lodged Ole Miss atop Western Division standings into the May 1-2 series at Alabama. The Reb record was 6-2. Alabama trailed with a 5-3 worksheet.

The score sheet tells the story. The Rebs bounced back after dropping the leadoff game at Tuscaloosa, and that series equalizer was a crucial conquest. It enabled Ole Miss to carry a percentage lead into the showdown games in University Park, with a 7-3 record and .700 to the Tide's 8-4 and .667.

What followed was the SEC classic of the season. Ole Miss won it, 1-0, on William's four-hit hurling. The Rebs collected their run in the eighth on Bullock's double and Gibbs' RBI single. 'Bama's lone threat died atop the ninth, with Williams retiring the Tide following Ken Chapman's leadoff triple. He fanned the last two hitters to make it 11 strikeouts for the game.

Rain forced cancellation of the series finale and Alabama's lone hope thereafter was a twin-Reb loss at Mississippi State hands, which did not develop. Denny Blomquist beat the Maroons in the title-deciding game, 4-2, and the Rebs swept the rain-abbreviated three-game series the next afternoon—on May 16—with a 6-2 win.

It was 30 years between Conference championships, Ole Miss winning in the old Southern Conference in 1929. Western Division SEC crowns were claimed in 1954 and 1956 but not the overall championship, although the 1956 club did cop the NCAA District III title and third place in the College World Series that summer.

Khayat and sophomore Frankie Halbert, who started in early games, handled catching details for the championship Rebs. Both were standout receivers. Khayat ranked second among Reb hitters with .350 and delivered the grand-slam homer which kayoed Tech hopes in the third playoff game. It highlighted a six-run first inning.

Williams finished up with an 8-1 campaign record, pitching SEC decisions over LSU 7-0; Tulane, 8-1; Miss. State, 11-1; LEU, 7-4; and Alabama, 1-0. His era in 11 games and 72⅓ innings was 1.12. He and Denny Blomquist, another junior, started in 14 of the 21 scheduled games. Blomquist posted a 5-2 record, and ERA of 2.23. His Conference victims were Alabama in the 6-3 win; Tulane, 22-2; and Miss. State, 4-2. Senior Bill Sistrunk went 2-1 for the season. His ERA was .84, the staff's best. Porter, the "soph" southpaw, was 1-1 and 2.32. It was Porter's pitching and hitting which led to the second game win over Tech. He hurled 7⅔ innings of one-hit, shutout ball in relief and contributed three hits, one a double.

Gibbs at third and Bullock at short were infield fixtures. Hugh Poland, a junior, and sophomore Chuck Touhey divided time at second base, with sophomores Ken Netherland and Jack Turner filling the same role on first. Gibbs led the team in hitting with .404, in runs batted in with 19, doubles with eight, hits with 36, total bases with 51 and stolen bases with 13. He was a member of the NCAA District III all-star team. Bullock was superb. A hustling shortfielder with a rifle arm, he hit .342 for the regular season and .533 against Tech.

In the outfield, Willis (Mike) Todd, a senior, was an early-season hitting sensation, finishing at .345. Jobe, the 1958 team's only .300 hitter (.302) fell to .234 but was tremendous defensively and a timely hitter with 17 RBI's and 74 runs scored. Billy Ray Jones, a sophomore, and Jamie Howell, junior college transfer, shared assignments in left field. Jones finished with a .265 batting average. Howell hit .246, and clubbed Tech hurling for a .500 average. His two-run homer led to the 3-2 downfall of visiting Notre Dame early in the season. Those were the lettermen, along with manager Bill Keyes. Other Rebs taking part were outfielders Jat Mitchell and Charles (Treetop) Magee and pitchers Dan Jordan, a 1958 letter winner, and Bob Ragan.

For team figures, the Rebs hit at a .272 clip with 191 hits in 702 official at bats. There were eight homers, 12 triples, 30 doubles. The theft totals were 39 stolen bases to seven. Forty errors in 747 chances produced a .946 fielding standard. The six pitchers working gave up 57 runs, 33 earned runs, 122 hits, fanned 203, issued 80 walks and produced a staff ERA of 1.63. The opposition hitting level was .182.

The dug-out crew watches the Rebels chalk up another victory.

GOLF AT OLE MISS IN 1959

Ole Miss' golfers, who seldom lose, turned in a 5-1-1 report for 1959, another successful season. At season's end, scheduled matches with Southwestern of Memphis and Alabama, both on the Rebel course, were cancelled.

Victories were scored over Ouachita (H), 13½-4½; Sewanee (H), 13½-4½; Delta State (A), 25½-1½; Southwestern (A), 16-2; and Delta State (H), 27-0. The 18½-8½ loss at the hands of Memphis State there was closer than the score indicated. The two teams played to a 13½-13½ deadlock over the Ole Miss layout.

In the combined Southern Intercollegiate and Southeastern Conference tournaments at Athens, Ga., the Rebs finished fourth in SEC competition with Joe Rice Goodwin of Philadelphia fronting the Rebels with 71-78-75-75 for 299 over the par 72 Athens C.C. course. Al Lyle of Meridian had a starting 72 for another fine Reb round.

The season's best round was turned in by Tommy Butler of Brookhaven who fired an eight-under 62 over the par 70 Cleveland C.C. course in the 25½-1½ defeat of Delta State. Butler also captured the Tupelo C.C. Invitational Tournament with an even-par 216 and a sudden death playoff win.

Lyle Denzil Taylor of Clarksdale and Butler alternated in the No. 1 role. Other Reb golfers were Dick Wilkerson of Yazoo City, Goodwin, Gene Van Cleve of Indianola and Floyd Davis of Sheffield, Ala. They posted a 22-7-3 margin in individual matches and a 14-3-1 edge in foursome results. Nassau scoring favored the Rebs by 70-31 and 44½-12½ in singles and foursome points.

THE OLE MISS TENNIS TEAM

Ole Miss' 1959 tennis team campaigned successfully through an 11-match season, winning six, losing four and playing one darkness-enforced deadlock. John Cain served as coach for the third straight year.

High point of the spring was the winning of the Mississippi Intercollegiate singles title by Phil Berry Jr., of Laurel, who downed the 1958 winner, Ivan Salas of Mississippi State, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, in the finals. Berry was runner-up in '58 and he and Bill Watson of Meridian were runners-up in doubles, a crown they captured as 1957 sophomores.

Berry and Watson played in the 1-2 singles slots through three varsity seasons. Over that span the Rebs won 26 matches against six defeats and a tie.

In 1959 tournament results Ole Miss finished second in the Mississippi meet, scoring 18 points, and tied for sixth in the SEC tourney with seven points.

Campaign results follow: Concordia (H), 7-0; L.S.U. (H), 2-7; Alabama (A), 8-1; Southwestern (H), 7-2; Mississippi State (H), 4-4; Southwestern (A), 7-2; Mississippi State (A), 1-8; Alabama (H), 9-0; Vanderbilt (A), 5-4; Southern Illinois (A), 2-7; Georgia (A), 0-9.

Squad members with singles results were: Berry, 6-5; Watson, 7-4; Louis Brandt of University, 4-7; Milburn Price of Ellisville, 6-5; Carl Aron of Monroe, La., 5-6; Gordon Anderson of Greenville, 7-2; and Bill Holmes of Yazoo City, 1-1.

Six doubles teams took part, as follows: Berry Watson, 7-3-1; Price-Brandt, 2-1; Aron-Anderson, 2-0; Brandt-Aron, 3-5; Price-Anderson, 3-4; and Price-Calliway Callicott, 0-1.

MISS MARTHA LOVELACE
M Club Sponsor

The M Club, now for over fifty years the symbol of athletics achievement at Ole Miss, has for its purpose the promotion of sportsmanship and the encouragement of school spirit. The blue M on the red field is emblematic of success in one of the four major sports—football, basketball, baseball or track—as well as the winning teams in golf and tennis.

As a result of being an exclusive organization, other requirements besides athletic prowess may be, and often are imposed on its members, viz. initiation! Campus eyes look forward each year to M Club initiation days, when the plights of candidates bring chuckles even from the stearnest educators.

Each year the M Club sponsors the annual M Club dance which is held sometime during the football season. Also during the season, an annual M Club Day is held at which time the club alumni are invited to return to the campus as honorary guests. To wind up the social activities, the M Club has a final party after the spring initiation of members.

Some of the M Club members enjoy TV in their new facilities in Miller Hall while two initiates attend a Freshmen football game in their initiation attire.

The Ole Miss Band used small Rebel flags to add color to their half-time performances.

REBEL MARCHING BAND

Since October, 1959, the ninety-five members of the Ole Miss Marching Band have traveled more than 3,000 miles, appearing in parades, pre-game, and half-time activities.

Their performance in the Sugar Bowl on January 1, 1960, marked their fourth such appearance since 1953.

Truly the presence of the Rebel Band at all activities was a great motivating force for much of the school spirit.

It is easy to see how these girls captured 88 beauty titles among them.

Rita Wilson gave some spectacular twirling performances during the year.

SYMPHONIC BAND

The Ole Miss Band, under the direction of Mr. Lyle Babcock, proved this year to be one of the best groups that the University has produced. At the beginning of the second semester, the band turned its activities toward concert music.

The annual concert tour was highlighted by such works as Richard Wagner's "Tannhauser Overture," Felix Mendelssohn's "Overture for Band," and William Schuman's "Chester." "La Fiesta Mexicana" by H. Owen Reed added a bit of the Mexican touch, and no concert was complete without the familiar strains of "Rebel March" and "Dixie."

The Women's Recreation Association was founded at the University of Mississippi in 1926. It is composed of all girls participating in the intramural sports activities that are conducted on the Ole Miss campus. The organization is governed by a board of representatives from each organization that sponsors a team in any of the independent groups.

This group has as its purpose the provision of activities that girls at the University of Mississippi can enjoy in their leisure time. A sensation is stirred up by awarding points to the winning teams in each event. At the end of the year the points are added up and the group with the greatest number of points wins a trophy.

The Intramural Sports Council, founded at the University of Mississippi in 1935, is composed of students representing each group of students—social fraternities, organizations, etc.—that participates in the intramural program here on the campus. It is their job to organize and carry out the various intramural programs that are conducted at Ole Miss. They set up the rules and regulations regarding the eligibility of students to participate and the other necessary regulations.

Because of the number of groups participating in the intramural program, leagues have to be set up for the various sports and play-offs are necessary.

Points are given to the winners and runners-up of the various sports. At the end the points are totaled, and the team having the greatest number of points receives a trophy. If a group wins the trophy for three years in a row, it gets to retire the trophy.

THE ALUMNI HOUSE

The Alumni House which was financed by contributions of the alumni of the University of Mississippi and a revenue bond issue was presented to the University on October 20, 1951. It was dedicated to the memory of those alumni and former students who gave their lives in wars of their country. With the adjoining Mississippi Center for Continuation Study it has become a part of one of the most complete adult education centers of the South.

60 GREEKS

Pledging ceremonies differ in content with each fraternity or sorority, but each one fills each person with deep emotion; and each person renews his vows to serve himself, his fraternity and his God with a great deal more seriousness of purpose from that night on.

GREEKS AND PLEDGES GREW

The vast, mysterious machinery began rolling in early summer. Potential freshmen who checked their mail found a wide assortment of brochures, warm cheery letters, and engraved invitations to any number of gay social affairs. As the long, hot months wore on, the machinery coiled tightly for a massive spring. The letters started flowing in.

The Greeks were rushing.

Pledges stay up all night working on the Homecoming decorations so that they will be ready on the morning of the game.

Young, and sometimes childish, freshmen soon learn of better ways to pass their time than talking on endlessly about nothing. The more serious pastimes are taught as a mental stimulus but the lighter activities are not neglected.

A stern pledge master watches over a study hall while hapless pledges learn to get into good study habits.

TOGETHER

Christmas date suppers with their risque gifts for the dates are an integral part of fraternity life.

Then it was over. Each of the sixteen fraternities and eight sororities entrenched on the Ole Miss campus had a pledge class.

With the tumult of Rush fading into a hazy limbo, the Greeks began the fascinating process of human osmosis, cajoling, forming and hammering unruly, skittish freshmen into an acceptable college mould. Big brothers and big sisters gave brotherly or sisterly advice to bewildered, grateful pledges.

These pledges, stepping hesitantly into the unfamiliar role of independent men and women, learned valuable lessons in civilized interdependence. They realized that the wishes and ideas of others must be placed on a plane equal to their own.

Slowly, the green freshman boy developed confidence in his abilities. Slowly, the loud freshman girl became a poised, mature young woman.

And the Greeks learned from the pledges. They brought young minds, young hopes, fresh industriousness into the organizations. They possessed a youthful exuberence which infected older, more settled members. The life blood of the Greeks was activated by a new, fresh, throbbing current.

The cycle continues. In the future, 1960's pledge will tell a confused, frightened newcomer, "Now when I was a freshman . . ."

Those fraternities and sororities that are fortunate enough to serve meals in their houses have a great opportunity to strengthen the brotherhood of the group. It is at lunch or dinner time that much of the campus news is passed on and many plans are made.

"Before you can lead, you must first learn to follow;" and the pledge training programs that require the pledges to work for the actives is based upon such a philosophy.

The dreaded black ball stands for the selectivity that has made the fraternity system great.

A POWERFUL LINK IN THE CHAIN

What would 59-60 at Ole Miss have been like without the Greeks?

Friday nights before football games would have been quiet and lonely indeed with the rollicking gaiety of fraternity and sorority parties.

Campus elections would have been dull, drab affairs, with no Greeks to push their candidates.

Underprivileged children would have found their Christmas stockings much thinner, with no fraternities and sororities to give them parties and longed-for presents.

The campus would have seemed bare and barren without the handsome rows of warm houses.

Without the Greeks, Ole Miss would have been vastly different and not nearly as pleasant.

Dates for TV in the house are abundant and provide much entertainment for all. Those who prefer bridge are usually angered by the blaring of the TV set, but c'est la vie.

Each rushee finds himself at the center of a group of interested actives who are trying to entertain the rushee while learning about the rushee and his poise, conversation ability etc.

COUNCIL

Sandra Shook, President, and Miss Waites, Pan Hellenic Advisor.

The Pan-Hellenic Council of the University of Mississippi is a member of the National Pan-Hellenic Conference. Its purpose is to further active cooperation and understanding among the sororities, non-sorority women, and the University.

The Pan-Hellenic Council strives to promote fine intellectual achievement and scholarship, to maintain high social standards, and to promote worthy projects on the campus. It sets up the methods concerning the rushing of girls each year, limiting the number to be pledged by each sorority and regulating the system by which bids are issued.

The council is composed of the presidents and two representatives elected from each sorority. The officers of the council are selected on a rotation system with each sorority having an officer of Pan-Hellenic at regular intervals. Each summer Pan-Hellenic sends a copy of the rush rules to prospective women students.

The Interfraternity-Council is an organization designed to regulate and govern the activities of all social fraternities on the University campus. The main duty of the council is carried out each year in the planning, setting up, and enforcing of rules for fraternity rush. Through the coordination of activities, the Inter-Fraternity Council tends to unite the fraternities in a spirit of friendly brotherhood.

It is composed of two representatives from each fraternity. Each representative is chosen by the fraternity of which he is a member. The Council is governed by four officers elected from the membership by the council itself.

The Junior Panhellenic Council is composed of pledges from each of the sororities on the Ole Miss campus. It is an organization similar in structure and objectives to the Senior Panhellenic Council. The organization helps to familiarize the pledges with fraternity life and the work of Panhellenic.

Two representatives and the president of each pledge class compose the council. The officers are chosen for Junior Panhellenic on the same rotation basis as the Senior Panhellenic.

Throughout the year, the Junior Panhellenic has several projects. Among these are: the model pledge cups, charity projects, and monetary projects. Miss Julia Waits is the advisor, assisted by Sandra Shook, Senior Panhellenic president.

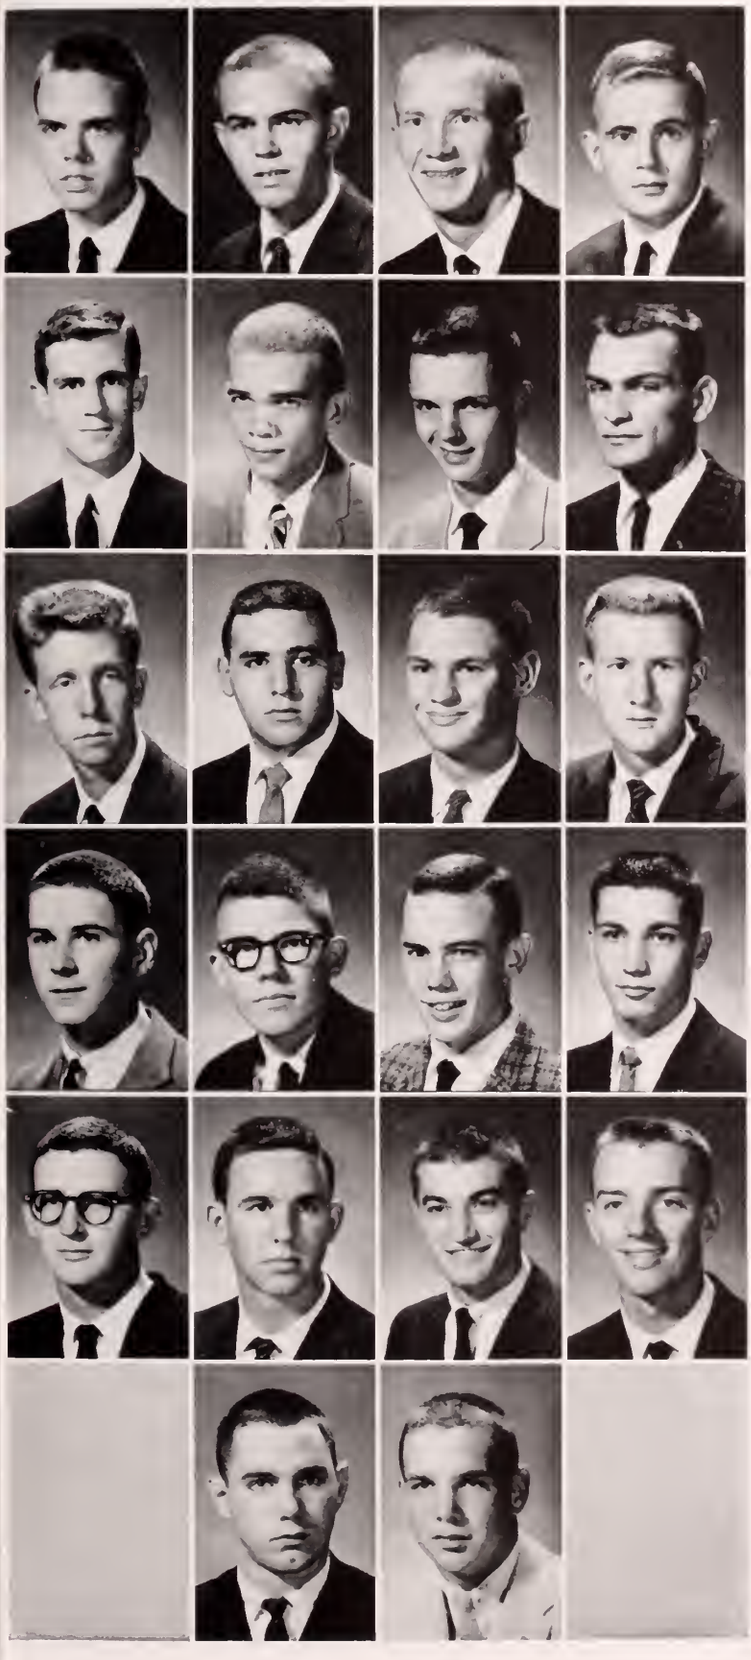
JUNIOR INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL



The Junior Inter-Fraternity Council is composed of two pledges from each fraternity. These representatives are selected by their individual pledge classes and serve for the entire year. The Council is also composed of a representative from the Senior Inter-Fraternity Council who is elected to serve as president of the Junior IFC for organizational purposes.

The purpose of the Junior IFC is to instill in its membership the principles of the fraternity system. In doing this, the representatives may give to their individual fraternities an incentive to improve its standards thereby cultivating a better environment where manhood may flourish. The Council also acts as a service organization, carrying out projects designated by the Senior IFC.

Alpha Omicron Pi is Ole Miss' "Baby Sorority." It finally migrated to the University in 1957 and formed Nu Beta Chapter, more than sixty years after its founding at Barnyard, pardon, Barnard College, which is a division of Columbia University.

Since their arrival, three years ago, the AOPis have promised rushees a new chapter house. Each year, they say it is forthcoming, with but "one year to go." At present, they are using the adequate facilities of "Ricks Cage for Feminine Students" as their chapter house and one hopes that Rushees don't "wise up."

The AOPis share their sorority flower, the Jacqueminot Rose, with the Phi Kappa Psis, and also their color, Cardinal, which translated, is red, with the Phi Psis and the Chi Omegas.

For rush, they have their Rose Tea, at which they really serve punch, however, with what ingredients, one could not say.

The AOPi social calendar consists of fraternity parties, date suppers—whereby they obligate members of the male race, their Christmas Party, picnics (featuring green flat beer, stale pretzels, and AOPis) and their formal, the Rose Ball, where they crown the "AOPi Rose."

An accurate account of their accomplishments are not available, however, they ARE represented in the Panhellenic Council, Campus Senate, WSGA and other such organizations.

The wise? wrinkled, degenerate old Owls of Chi Omega Fraternity first snubbed their way on campus in 1899 with the immigration of Tau Chapter, after having been founded in 1895 at the University of Arkansas.

The ChiO's have finished another year of demonstrating their remarkable campus political power generally attributed to excessive greed. With two Miss Americas, the Owls are presently split as to the next, as they promised that honor to several rushees.

Among the ChiO entourage, one may find all manner of pseudo-aristocratic belles, all of which honor the colors, Cardinal, the color they share with the AOPi's and Phi Kappa Psi's and straw which is the equivalent of gold, the latter being of primary interest.

The ChiO's, like the Phi Mu's and Tri-Delts, honor the Carnation, colored white, which in most other cases represents purity.

ChiO claims one of the more modern ante-bellum (Spanish-American) houses, which is almost adequate for sleeping and meeting. Often they sponsor slumber parties, which, of course, feature segregated genders, and where they take their after-lunch naps.

The ChiO's claim "numerous date suppers" however the guests are generally females.

The principal party attraction of the ChiOs are the astoundingly successful Faculty Teas, which adequately account for their position as the scholastic elite on sorority row.

Delta Delta Delta, the Ole Miss sorority that tries the hardest, appeared at the University in the midst of their usual pall of brimstone and smoke, in 1904.

Chi Chapter commences rush each year with their "Kiddie Party." At this party, they participate in exactly the same activities that most kiddies between the ages of one and two-and-one-half would do . . . CRY.

Prior to this party, the Tri Delts taint the house atmosphere with an onion-juice atomizer and serve their "Kiddie Punch" which probably consists primarily of tasteless pure grain alcohol, both of which naturally, have profound effects on their rush outcome.

Each year, the "3-Ds" sponsor an alumnae day, for benefactors of all types. Here, they beg for handouts, sometimes referred to as donations, with which to pay the staggering debt caused by the construction of their castle, which is rapidly depreciating.

Their unique sorority pin is definitely symbolic. The famous pattern of the Crescent Moon and Stars is what they usually see on dates, the silver and gold are what they look for in their mates, and the blue is representative of their post-rush sentiment.

The Tri Delt flower is the pansy. Like the colors the flower is also symbolic.

After more than fifty years, Delta Gamma Sorority, which was founded at the now defunct Lewis Girls' School in Oxford, in 1874, moved one-half of a mile, from University Avenue to Sorority Row with a chapter designated Alpha Psi.

The Delta Gammas, through a series of amusing coincidences, now "claim" to be the "mother chapter" of Delta Gamma. This "claim" is originated in that the original house is now rotting in the interests of "another sorority," and, rather than have no mother chapter, the group of eighty-five chose the best geographically, Alpha Psi.

The present Delta Gamma house is referred to as their "Memorial House," although it resembles more a mausoleum type memorial than any other.

Prior to the 1959-60 school year, the Delta Gammas inevitably won any campus election for which they vied.

The DG's muscular physiques are accounted for in that they place great emphasis on intra-sorority competitive athletics, which anoints them with the title, "the athletes of sorority row."

Like the AOPis and the KDs, the Delta Gammas prefer the Rose, although theirs is a slightly different shade.

For their colors, the DGs have bronze, pink, and blue.

According to "factual" rush literature published by the DGs, "each year" they celebrate "Founders' Day" and "go to church."

One year before the devastating economic depression of 1929, Alpha Mu Chapter of Kappa Delta Sorority descended upon the University, (C'est la vie), twenty-eight years after its founding at Longwood College, where Zeta Tau Alpha was also founded, in a town called Farmville, in Virginia.

The KDs are noted, this year, for pledging the largest single group of rushees of any other sorority, or any fraternity, except naturally, Sigma Chi. This is due to the fact that over the summer, most of their sisters had either flunked out or wed.

For rush, the KDs have their skit, "KD Hades." This is definitely symbolic and is indicative of the future, when and if the rushees happen to pledge.

The KD's are installed in one of the more modern houses on sorority row that is well-equipped to serve meals, once per week, prepared by the University Cafeteria.

For their flower, like the Delta Gammas and AOPis, they honor the rose, and their colors, like the Army ROTC and the gates most of them will never see: olive green and pearl white.

Unfortunate for KD is their subservient position as a protectorate under SAE, their little brothers.

The "Golden Key" (to what, we know not) was brought to the University by Kappa Kappa Gamma in 1947, with the influx of Delta Rho Chapter.

Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded at Monmouth College in 1870, exactly ninety years ago.

The Kappas, on their off-nights, often practice winning Stunt Night, which they have won for the past two consecutive years. The fact that they are generally unopposed and that the judges are Kappa "influenced" is usually unmentioned.

For their flower, the Kappas have the French Fleur-de-lis, which poses quite a decoration problem, and their colors are both light and dark blue.

The Kappas enjoy a full social life, generally consisting of attending fraternity sponsored and paid for dances and beach parties at Sardis, however still maintaining their own social functions such as, a Christmas party, open houses, "Nose-'em-up" Teas, and roof-top beer busts.

As the Dekes are the Kappas brothers, they stride hand-in-hand through the campus' march of time.

Their pass word is "babe."

PHI MU SORORITY

OFFICERS

CAROLE LYNN WILSON ..... President
ROSEMARY MITCHELL ..... Secretary
NANCY BURKES ..... Treasurer

Alpha Delta Chapter of Phi Mu Sorority inaugurated itself into the University's campus organizational life in 1924. This statement of fact, despite the seemingly harmless aspect in which it appears, is somewhat questionable, in that fraternities and sororities were declared illegal in Mississippi until several years after that date, namely, 1926.

So it was, that the Sorority founded at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia, in 1852, became Ole Miss' "illegal sorority."

With them, the Phi Mus brought the gradually disintegrating "true ideals of southern womanhood," the Carnation, a flower which they share with the Chi Omegas, and their colors, Rose and White.

In an attempt to obligate the male campus electorate, Phi Mu gives countless date suppers, fraternity buffets, and an International Party which is designed to feed Christmas dinner to foreign exchange students.

Other parties include an early rush party called the "Underprivileged Children's Party," when they first commence bribing future potential members, and their Faculty Teas which account for their relatively good scholastic standing.

The Phi Mus lean on the KAs as their little brothers. What a bunch to lean on!

Zeta Tau Alpha arrived at Ole Miss in 1939, a short while before the outbreak of World War (C'est la guerre), in the guise of Gamma Delta Chapter. Presently, they have 30,000.

It is indeed a strange fact in history, in that both the Zetas and the KDs were founded at the same school, Longwood College, and the latter was one year senior. Yet, the Zetas had to have a special act of the Virginia Legislature to make them legal. One wonders if this is something akin to Mississippi's "Black Market Tax."

The college at which they were founded was located in a very appropriate town, Farmville. One hopes that this is not symbolic.

The Zeta Rush Season is climaxed by their "Circus Party." One presumes that standard circus attractions are in attendance, i.e., clowns, animals, tigers, snowshoe Hares, and so forth.

The principal attribute to the Zetas is the unflinching trust in which they hold their officers. They have two treasurers.

As their flower, the Zetas worship the White Violet, and, as their colors, they revere Steel Grey and Turquoise, the latter being a basic color which they share with the Tri Delts, Delta Gammas, and Kappas.

The year 1927 will forever be fatefully remembered by Ole Miss, for in that year, the "Hairy-chested men" of Alpha Tau Omega established Delta Psi.

The ATO orgies are generally held at their "Tau Hut" where one may often find several brothers strewn about. This home away from the long and far-reaching arm of John Law is located in a swamp near Oxford.

The ATOs are now building a new addition to their present house and a disguise for the existing structure. These plans include rooms with padded walls, two-man cages, and include all the modern conveniences.

Unlike many of the other campus fraternities, they have instituted a "Hellish Help Week" rather than a mere "Hell Week." Under the auspices of "Good Samaritans" helping out their fellowman the ATO destruction crew moves to the scene of a nearby tenant shack, drives a few nails here and there, saws a few boards, and ends up in totally destroying the structure. This endeavor is usually made in the interest of chapter publicity.

The ATOs have always strived for high scholarship, and prided themselves in NROTC officers (as if anyone else wants them), Ole Miss Bands members, and other campus honorary organizations.

The most notable achievement of the Ole Miss Beta Theta Pi Chapter in recent years has been the destruction by fire of their chapter house in the summer of 1959.

Beta Beta chapter, the Ole Miss representative, is among the ninety-six chapters spread across the nation and composing the Beta national fraternity, which is the oldest in the United States.

In 1879, as the Mississippi retaliatory power was still weakened by Reconstruction forces, the Betas invaded Ole Miss with the establishment of a chapter. Since then, the diamond's rays have sparkled for more than ninety years.

Despite their national fraternity's preference to the Pink Rose, the Beta Beta Betas prefer the Magnolia Blossom.

The Beta social calendar is filled with events including dances, outings, a formal dance, and one-third sponsorship in the Miami Triad with the junior members, the Phi Delts and the Sigma Chis.

After one year, less a month, and one semester late, the dekes finally finished their symbolic new fraternity house. This house is of the traditional type, as it is modeled after Lester dormitory and the "Fin and Feather."

The new building was warmed in the grand old tradition of Delta Kappa Epsilon and the University of Mississippi with a beer-bust which took place on the roof. The brothers were almost saved from capture by one of their more illustrious brothers, who, when threatened by the campus gendarmes, threw beer at them. (Reason: they were uninvited.)

Chi Chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon was the first fraternity in the state of Mississippi and began terrorizing the University in its infancy.

The Deke's former house was burned in 1957 and the rash of arson has been continued to the present.

The Dekes, because of their lack of a standard meeting place, had to mend their ways and act almost civilized; so they were soon released from social probation, which had previously caused them to party out-of-town. The Dekes are unusually fond of parties and generally have orgies only! These parties are held with hand-picked chaperons, and cover any classification from a formal to a "get-together."

DELTA PSI FRATERNITY

The Phi Chapter of Delta Psi, under the able leadership of an unknown individual, better known on campus as "The Phantom," added another year to their string of one-hundred and five on the Ole Miss campus.

The Delta Psis, like many other campus fraternities, also claim a "first." Their "first" is that they were the first fraternity to build a house in the state of Mississippi. From all outward appearances, they still occupy it.

A tradition with the Delta Psis, who supposedly increase brotherhood in direct proportion to the secrecy of their organization, is that they refuse to publish the names of their officers. They must keep their pins on at all times, and, keep the backs of their pins from being seen by anyone other than another Delta Psi.

Delta Psi was founded at Columbia University in 1847 and claims as its colors azure, blue, and gold. These colors are fabulous for decorations and are used whenever possible. By the way, what color is azure?

The "Knights of Alcohol," often referred to as Kappa Alpha, are presently enjoying the absence of any form of probation wrought by the excessive consumption of their traditional mint-julep or inept scholastic efforts.

The "Southern Gentlemen" are furnished leadership by their spiritual founder, Robert E. Lee, who, along with some former despotic dictator, is seemingly reincarnated in the person of their number one, Tom Turner.

KA, the aggregate of perpetual students, is entering its sixtieth year on the Ole Miss campus, and since the fateful granting of the charter, they have accomplished many things and have adopted many characteristics, most of which, are bad.

Among these characteristics are: all-time consistent low in scholarship, all-time consistent low in singing harmony, all-time high in nonchalance, having had more forms of probation than any other fraternity, and in repulsive parties.

KA is the practice field for new fraternity subduing devices, for, if successful they will work on any.

The Crimson and Old Gold (not cigarettes) are well represented on the campus political scene, having won one election in the past year. They do have ADS sewed up, however.

The Kappa Alpha party calendar lasts thirteen months per year, and includes two house parties, two formals, dozens of dances, parties, and countless faculty teas—their favorite form of party.

Kappa Sigma was founded five-hundred and twenty-six years ago at the University of Bologna. It is rumored that Christopher Columbus was a Kappa Sig pledge but never made his grades.

After waiting four hundred and sixty-nine years for their immigrations papers to be approved, they arrived at the University of Virginia, from which, as rabbits, they became numerous and fostered many chapters among which was Delta Xi, established at the University of Mississippi in 1926.

The scarlet, green, and white are the colors of this ancient fraternity, and, like the Pikes, their flower is the Lily-of-the-Valley.

The Kappa Sigs admit their tendency to rebel as they admire the "steadfast allegiance" of Jefferson Davis, who is listed as one of their more illustrious alumni.

Similar to the claims of more than half the fraternities at Ole Miss, the Kappa Sigs also claim to have the best parties. Their social calendar lists such activities as open-houses, faculty teas, pledge parties, a formal, banquets, dances, and many others.

The Kappa Sigma fraternity is now constructing a new chapter house designed after the Sigma Chi's which, when completed, will allow them to serve meals, and increase their brotherhood.

Phi Delta Theta, the University's "Pre-Theological Fraternity," is presently enjoying the facilities of the University Cafeteria, better known as "Ptomain Tavern" or "The Head," as their chapter home.

Accepting the advice of an Economics 101 graduate, the Phis sold their old sanctuary, and are planning a brand new monastery with built in incense burners, individual altars, and other appropriate facilities. This will be completed early in 1965.

To date, the Phis have pooled all their resources and have constructed a magnificent, colossal, azure and argent (milky-blue and dirty-white) billboard, which recently fell down.

The Upper Half, or "Scouts," meet in the Baptist Church with spiritual guidance, and the Lower Half, or "Rummies," are meeting at Marks, Sardis, or the Haba with a different form of "spiritual guidance." The Phi Delts were at a disadvantage during rush this year for the lack of a house and good hot-box rooms.

The Phis and campus politics do not mix. They can't afford to lose any political support, mainly because they don't have much now. Occasionally, an unopposed Phi will be elevated to prominence on the campus political scene.

The Phis have considerable honors in the BSU, Wesley Club, Canterbury Club, ODK, Scabbard and Blade, ASB, and others.

The Phis are now vying for the worst fraternity party title. You can quit now! Boys, you win! The KA's just relinquished it!

Mississippi Alpha of Phi Kappa Psi was established at the University of Mississippi in 1857, three years before the outbreak of the War Between the States. Everything had seem to come at once.

After donating their chapter personnel to the Confederacy, they were never again the same.

The Phi Kappa Psis, better known as Phi Psis, purchased the old Phi Delt sanctuary and are now endeavoring to serve meals, with the aid of their borrowed housemother, who incidentally, refused to cry for them during rush this year.

The Phi Kappa Psis were founded five years before their influx into Mississippi at Jefferson College in Pennsylvania.

The Phi Kappa Psi activities consist of scholastic efforts, however lax, date-suppers, dances, informal get-togethers, and their annual spring formal, known as the Jacqueminot Ball.

The fraternity colors are Cardinal Red and Hunter Green and their fraternity flower is the Jacqueminot Rose.

The Phi Psis point with pride to Woodrow Wilson, a former Phi Psi for whom a bridge was named near Jackson.

The Pi Kappa Alphas, who two years ago built a Colonial Mansion are now busily depreciating it.

The Pike Rush Motto is "Pike meant leadership!" (Most rushees think this is a typographical error). This is evidenced by the scores of important offices they used to hold.

The Pike social season consists of repulsive parties of all sorts. These parties are not so much made repulsive by the actions, but by the attendance. Amongst these parties of reknown are the Roman Ball, the Playboy Ball, and Dream Girl Ball (formal), where they anoint THE "lucky girl" with a tiara of paper mache, and the title of "Pike Dream Girl" along with a Lily-or-so-of-the-Valley, which is the flower they share with Kappa Sigma.

It is understood that the Pike formal is extremely tame because the members are "allowed" to inebriate themselves the night before, thereby fending off any probation that might result from the behavior of overzealous member on the night of the ball.

Other social functions consist of pledge parties, date-suppers, dances, beer-busts, and many other various and sundry types of activities.

The Pikes are represented on campus through membership in ROTC units, and through some honorary organizations and the ASB.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is one of the better small localized fraternities at Ole Miss. They occupy virtually a brand new house, as compared to Veteran's Village structures. Dissatisfied with their present living conditions, they are presently planning an off-campus annex to be located in the vicinity of Marks, Mississippi. Since their brothers spend more time there than on campus, they believe it will be more convenient.

Since their influx onto campus in 1866, the SAEs have been trying to win the "Highest Per Capita Consumption of Alcoholic Beverages" Trophy. Someone should tell them that they won this forty years ago.

According to literature published by the SAEs they have an excellent chapter, terrific boys, high scholarship, great leadership, and good character. Lest we stray too far from the truth, let us add that this was a rush booklet.

The Gamma Chapter rush season consists of a limited period of time during which they attempt to ply rushees with as much inebriating liquid as they can possibly hold. If they are successful, they might pledge.

It is really shameful for the SAEs to permit their fraternity grounds, namely their lioness sentries, to mar the exquisite beauty of the Ole Miss campus. It seems they should at least keep them clean.

The Sigma Chis, who are presently draining their kitchen profits to pay for their modified service station and install gasoline pumps, have added another year to their string of more than one hundred, and are now concerned with the absorption of the majority of the campus electorate.

With this in mind, they base their rushing-pledging formula, which goes as follows: "Eight to eighty; blind, cripple, or crazy; cull none!"

The Sigma Chis have an excellent spirit of brotherhood despite their gargantuan size. The proof of this statement is evidenced in the manner in which they participate in friendly, brotherly, intra-chapter competition for the campus feminine affections.

The Sigma Chi meals are quite delicious and tasty. As they say, "Practice makes perfect!" This is evidenced by the fact that their soup and hamburger are an "Epicurean's delight."

The Sigma Chis participate in the Miami Triad Spring Dance and have their own Sweetheart Ball, where they crown the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, and sing the song to which they owe their national fame.

The Sigma Chis hold the presidency of the Student Body, and through the Jacksonian "spoils system," have many student officers.

The colors are blue and gold, and their flower, like the Sigma Nu's, is the White Rose.

The "harmless Snakes" of Sigma Nu are now the proud owners of a brand-new version of the latest model "snake-pit."

According to a recent propaganda pamphlet published by the Sigma Nus, theirs is one of the nation's leading social fraternities.

Epsilon Xi Chapter was dumped on Ole Miss in 1927, and since then, they have carried themselves in the grand old tradition of the school, excepting scholastically, that is.

The Snakes delight in inventing new names for old parties. They sponsor parties such as: a Roaring Twenties Party, a Beachcomber Party, a Redneck Party (which is equivalent to a come-as-you-are party) and their magnificent spring formal, the White Star Ball.

Unlucky in campus politics, they always have their indomitable cheerleader, "Rah Rah" Williams, and minor positions in the ROTC units, Military fraternities, and other campus organizations.

These "Snakes" are harmless for they follow the old adage, "A stoned snake never strikes."

Like the Sigma Chis, their fraternity flower is the White Rose, and unlike them, their colors are Gold, Black, and White.

One year before the devastating Depression of 1929 ruined the United States economic system, Mississippi Alpha of Sigma Phi Epsilon was chartered at Ole Miss.

SPE was founded after the turn of the century by twelve Divinity students. Since that time, the "Sig Eps" have made rapid progress toward the other extreme.

The SPE's attempt to "enhance their brotherhood" and develop the "whole" man with the satisfaction of their brothers' social and "spiritual" needs. The type of spirits used could not be determined.

Through the efforts of the SPE alumni, the chapter purchased a house, which caught fire during the summer of 1959, but which the Oxford-University Fire Department accidentally saved.

Sigma Phi Epsilon is the second largest fraternity in the United States insofar as the number of chapters is concerned, while most other fraternities vie for quality rather than quantity.

The colors of the "fraternity with a heart" are purple and red and the flowers are violets and American Beauty Roses.

Beta Mu Chapter of Sigma Pi, contrary to popular opinion stands for character, loyalty, scholarship, and the individual.

The national fraternity, Sigma Pi, was founded at Vincennes University in Indiana in 1897, and presently has sixty chartered chapters.

Two years ago, the Sigma Pis at Ole Miss purchased a fraternity house and are now busily paying for it.

Each year the Beta Gamma Chapter sends representative members to the national convocation. A few times they have won Efficiently Certificates.

Each year the Sigh Pis have their share of orgies and other forms of social functions. Among their many and varied social functions they have open-houses, parties, informal get-togethers, and their Orchid Ball, which is their spring formal.

Their colors are Lavendar and White and their flower is the Lavendar Orchid. An orchid of this variety is given to the Sweetheart of Sigma Pi as she is crowned, or named, each year at their formal.

The Sigma Pi fraternity pin is very symbolic, but non-members are not supposed to know and members can't remember, so their secret is safe.

Alpha Sigma Chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi is presently celebrating its Silver Anniversary on the University of Mississippi campus.

They were established on February 16, 1935, at Ole Miss, and were founded thirty-one years previously at the College of the City of New York. In other words, they are basically a Yankee fraternity.

Since their establishment at Ole Miss, they have acquired a virtual monopoly on rush, a controlling delegation to the Hillel Foundation, and many other important accomplishments and activities, such as, the IFC, Junior IFC, Cardinal Club, Committee of 100. Campus Senate, and when they vote right, a post in the ASB.

The Phi Ep colors, like the SAE's, are purple and "gold," and like the Phi Delts, they honor the White Carnation as the fraternity flower.

Phi Ep has a president, vice-president, two secretaries (the first can't write), and fourteen treasurers.

Phi Kappa Theta is a fraternity for Catholic students of the University of Mississippi.

This fraternity reached its present status through a series a amalgamations and mergers with other Catholic fraternities. In 1922, two local fraternities from Lehigh University and Penn State were amalgamated to form Theta Kappa Phi, which was then merged in 1959 with Phi Kappa, thereby forming Phi Kappa Theta.

In 1951, this fraternity was established at Ole Miss and Chi chapter has endeavored to provide a complete education for the Catholic university man, with emphasis on birth control and other such doctrines, as well as organized spiritual, scholastic, and social life to members.

PKT's official flower is the Columbine and the colors are red, silver, and gold. The members try to manifest a public spirit and lively interest in all that concerns the life and welfare of the school.

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers, Student Chapter, received its charter on the Ole Miss Campus in 1957. After a close inspection of the University as a whole, but with special emphasis on the Department of Chemical Engineering, it was decided that this university was qualified to have a chapter. The purpose of the student chapter is to promote the professional development of students of chemical engineering. Furthermore, it endeavors to foster a professional spirit among its members and instill a professional pride in chemical engineering. The activities of the chapter include lectures, movies, and the presentation of papers prepared by the members. In this way the club works to achieve its goal.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING CLUB

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers was founded on the University campus as the Mechanical Engineers Club on 15 November 1954. The organization is open to all engineering students, sophomores or above, who are majoring in mechanical engineering. The purpose of the club is to promote better relations among the students and to keep students abreast of the latest developments in the engineering field. Meetings are held at which technical movies are shown, various industrial speakers are presented, and faculty members present papers.

The Mechanical Engineering Department of the University has recently been accredited. Thus the Mechanical Engineers Club has become associated with the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and is now one of its student chapters.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS

Student chapters of the American Society of Civil Engineers provide the opportunity for the beginnings of professional associations. Membership is open to all juniors and seniors in the Department of Civil Engineering, but all students in the department are welcome to attend some of the meetings. Membership in a chapter assures that contacts can be made with the technical and professional progress of civil engineering and with the leaders who are responsible for such progress. Even more important, membership offers the chance to take part in the constructive activities carried on by future leaders of the profession. The student chapter supplements regular class meetings and laboratory work and is the only agency that can relate the professional development of students to the achievements of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

ANCHOR AND CHAIN

Anchor and Chain was organized at the University of Mississippi in 1947. Since its earliest days the primary function of this organization has been to promote, "esprit de corps" in the Naval ROTC Unit through meetings, social activities, and an active intramural participation. The programs at the meetings usually include a guest speaker from some phase of Naval or Marine service. Toward the close of the year, Anchor and Chain tries to acquaint the members who are going on cruise in the summer with the various aspects, requirements, and other matters of interest of each cruise. The members are held closely together because of one common interest—becoming an officer in the United States Navy.

Delta Sigma Pi was founded at New York University School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance, on November 7, 1907. Alpha Phi Chapter was established at the University of Mississippi in 1927. Membership is limited to men in the school of Commerce and Business Administration who meet the necessary scholastic requirements and unanimously pass the chapter.

Delta Sigma Pi sponsors tours of leading industries, conducts programs with prominent speakers from the business world, and promotes discussions and films about important topics of interest to commerce students. Each year, the fraternity, in cooperation with the School of Commerce and Business Administration, sponsors Commerce Day. In the spring, Delta Sigma Pi holds its annual Rose Ball. At this time the Rose of Delta Sigma Pi and her court are presented.

THE DOWN BEATS

The Chief plays for the Parade of Favorites.

Organized by Buddy Flowers in 1954, the Down Beats has become one of the area's top dance bands. From an original 6-piece instrumental combo, the band evolved to the current 8-piece polished group. Of the original group, only three—Tommy Gray, Ed Forsythe, and Flowers—remain.

Composed of Ole Miss students, the band must confine its playing primarily to weekends and an annual Christmas tour. In the last four years, nearly every college, high school, and country club in the mid-south area has been the scene of a Down Beat dance.

EPSILON GAMMA EPSILON

Epsilon Gamma Epsilon is a professional fraternity for men and women in office administration and was founded at the University of Mississippi in 1951. It is incorporated in Mississippi and will become a national organization during this year.

Epsilon Gamma Epsilon emphasizes four phases of activity—the professional, the fraternal, the honorary, and the social. Its chief purpose is to promote the ideals and concepts of higher education in office administration which will contribute to the preparation of men and women for office occupations and for teaching in the field of business education.

The activities of the fraternity enable its members to become acquainted with leaders in the fields of business and business education and to become aware of current developments, standards, practices, and routines of business.

Membership in the organization is based on character, leadership, and scholarship. It is limited to students enrolled in the Department of Office Administration and Business Education who are specializing in secretarial science, office management, and business education.

The club was founded on the university campus in 1938. The purpose of this organization is to bring together and inform the members of the opportunities in the field of home economics, and to promote clean, healthful homemaking.

A national program is set up at the beginning of each year. The points of this program are sent to the various clubs throughout the United States. At the meetings, held the first Monday of each month, the members work to carry out these points and to obtain the standards set up by the club here at Ole Miss.

KAPPA PSI

The first national Greek letter pharmaceutical fraternity to be founded was Kappa Psi. The founding took place on 5 December, 1879, at the College of Virginia. Later a chapter was established on the campus of the University of Mississippi and remained active until around 1930, when it went inactive. Some seventeen years later in May, 1947, the Beta Rho chapter of Kappa Psi was re-activated. Since that time its prestige has grown steadily on the Ole Miss campus.

Members are chosen in recognition of their scholastic standing, general ability, character, and personality. They are expected to exert their utmost efforts to preserve and further the ideals of the pharmaceutical profession.

The honor of membership in Mortar Board has come to symbolize an outstanding contribution to the Ole Miss campus in the fields of scholarship, leadership, and service. Each spring Mortar Board re-evaluates its own contributions and standards, then, on Honors Day in Fulton Chapel, taps new members according to its highest ideals. Mortar Board is more than an honorary organization, however. The campus situation is constantly studied, and service is rendered when needed.

Mortar Board joins with ODK in sponsoring the ODK-Mortar Board Forum series which continues throughout the year. They invite internationally famous persons to speak on pertinent subjects. Honors Day is also under their supervision.

NEWMAN CLUB

The Newman Club is composed of the Roman Catholic students attending the University of Mississippi. It takes its name from the English clergyman and scholar of the nineteenth century, John Henry Cardinal Newman, who had a special interest in students. The purpose of the club is to foster and deepen the spiritual, intellectual, and social interests of its members whenever possible.

The religious side consists of Mass and Communion together with retreats and Rays of Recollection. In the intellectual side, discussion classes are held on philosophical, sociological, and religious subjects.

Many projects are worked on so as to accomplish a double good—that is aiding some person or group of persons, while at the same time promoting Roman Catholic ideals on the campus and helping the individual to develop.

"Religion and Life are one and the same, or neither is anything," believes the University Christian Association. It strives in many ways to unite a campus of natural fragmentation—both social and academic—into a real community based upon a common ground: that of believers in God. Its purposes can easily be discovered in the many types of activities within the organization's program.

These activities are carried out through the joint YMCA-YWCA. The "Y" meets every Monday evening in its own building for worship, study, fellowship and service. The heart of the "Y" is the Cabinet, student leaders who direct Y-sponsored activities—convocations, retreats, stunt night, and countless other projects in cooperation with other campus groups.

PHI DELTA PHI

Phi Delta Phi is the oldest professional fraternity in the United States. International in scope, this legal fraternity is one of the enduring institutions among honorary fraternities which exist today. Mayes Inn of Phi Delta Phi was formed at The University of Mississippi in 1927. The members are selected from those law students who have displayed the highest qualities of scholarship and character in their legal training. The purpose of the fraternity is to promote culture and professional ethics in the legal profession.

Participation in Phi Delta Phi's activities offers the earnest law student unmatched opportunities for an early awareness of the practical legal problems and techniques not emphasized in the curriculum, as well as helpful guidance to a more general understanding of the profession for which he is studying to be a member.

The Baptist Student Union serves as a connecting link between the campus and the church for Baptist students and for those of Baptist preference. It offers an opportunity for spiritual growth on the campus along with mental and cultural developments through church-related programs and activities. The BSU Councils which are elected annually have the responsibility of contacting and enlisting, in the various activities, and to co-ordinate the Baptist program with that of other campus religious organizations.

Each year the Ole Miss BSU sends a delegation to the State BSU Convention. It sponsors short devotionals each week day at noon which are conducted by the students themselves. Prayer dates are considered an important part of the BSU. Various mission projects are also undertaken.

In October of 1947 the Business Education Club was organized on the campus of the University of Missisippi. This club is the unifying force for the many students and faculty on the campus who are interested in business education. Through this organization they can get to know each other better and have more opportunities to discuss a subject of mutual interest. The club also provides excellent opportunities for the student to become a personal friend of many of the faculty members since they meet because of a common interest. Because it was felt that the benefits are just as great to a "C" student as an "A" student, membership is not based on grade averages, but is extended to all students and faculty who are interested in business education.

Chi Epsilon is a national honorary fraternity for civil engineers. Its purpose is to form a closer union and bond of friendship and loyalty among those now preparing for and those now in the civil engineering profession.

Eligibility for membership in Chi Epsilon is determined by excellence shown in scholarship, character, personality, practicality, and sociability. Juniors and seniors in the School of Engineering are the only persons eligible.

This year marks the eleventh successive year of the Ole Miss chapter of Chi Epsilon since its organization. It was inactive for six years before it was reorganized in 1949. Since its reorganization, Chi Epsilon has done a great deal towards creating a spirit of unity among those in the civil engineering profession. Hillel, which is one of 200 foundations at universities and colleges in the United States and foreign countries, provides Jewish students of the University of Mississippi with personal counseling, plus services for all needs such as culture, religion, and social activities. The foundation on this campus is sponsored by the Mississippi B'nai B'rith, a Jewish men's service organization.

In all phases of its work, Hillel seeks to relate the student to his historical and cultural group. It resensitizes him to the meaning and beauty of his tradition, and it acquaints him with current developments in Jewish life, while equipping him with skills to help maintain and develop Jewish life as a dynamic cultural and social process. The common interests of all Hillel members make it a very worthwhile, enjoyable, and progressive group.

A DIVERSE AND VARIED ASSEMBLY

Ole Miss is a montage of many elements . . . diverse elements which by a seemingly accidental process form a whole. The elements are old, and they are new. Some . . . the Lyceum, the trees, the hills . . . seem as permanent as is the abstract idea, Ole Miss. Others change each year. The most changing and yet the most integral of these elements are the students. Each year some depart, and others arrive. Those of 1960 are not those of 1930 or 1980. Their faces are different; their clothes are of different styles; their language varies. But for a time . . . short for some, longer for others . . . they are a part of Ole Miss. And then they are replaced by others.

They come from everywhere . . . from Korea, from Colombia, from New York from Mississippi. Their parents are millworkers, farmers, merchants, industrialists. They are tall, short, blond, brunette. They profess many religions. Their homes are wealthy and impoverished. They are conservative and liberal. Yet, as different as they may be, they are Ole Miss students, gathered into one place, and held together by a common bond.

It's mighty hard to walk to class when there are others sitting around enjoying the sunshine.

Sometimes the second floor of the Lyceum seems like a jail.

Exams make contortionists out of the students while they try to think of the correct answers, but it seems as if everyone thinks that pressure applied to the forehead will bring the results needed.

Dr. Carbone's lectures bring alive the events of the past for those who aren't usually interested in history.

Everyone in this class seems to know what those formulas on the board mean. Amazing, isn't it?

UNITED

The corner by the Post Office is always crowded, but especially during the breaks between classes as everyone rushes over to get their mail from home so that they will have something to do during class.

The students are different, but they are alike. For a semester or a year or four or seven years they live together, eat together and study together. They share new experiences and new sensations. They attend the same classes, like and dislike the same professors.

And they all have just ten minutes—ten minutes to get to classes, to crowd in the post office or grill, to smoke a cigarette, to plan a date, or even to prepare an assignment.

They go to classes through persistent rain and occasional snow. They settle into conversation or daydreams, both

The posting of the results of final exams always causes a large crowd to appear around the various bulletin boards used for the purpose.

AND ENRICHED BY OLE MISS

quickly ended by a sharp: "Mr. Ames?, Miss Archer?, Miss Black? . . ." As class begins, some listen, some dream, and a few sleep. The class wears on, made brief by interest or interminable by boredom, the bell rings, and there is another ten minutes.

As finals approach, there are some confident and some frightened. Hopefuls cram right up to the classroom door and leave stacks of textbooks in the halls. Then there is a strange mixture of fear and hope until grades are released.

The students change; sometimes professors change; but the classes remain.

It is said that it is very difficult to become an engineer, but the only thing that it really takes is the ability to stand at a drawing board all afternoon while the loafers of the education school are sleeping or cutting out paperdolls for the next day's class.

LAST WORD

As the Annual is being compiled, everything that goes on is carefully noted and filed away for use in the book. Because of censors most of the more interesting things were left out. Thus far the book has been filled with the dull and prosaic; depicted, however, in technicolor with super-dooper photography so that one doesn't even recognize the normal campus scenes. The unused portion of the annual's file is chuck full of little "tid bits" that really should be brought to light.

Perhaps the most prominent file is that on "Purges." Before last year's graduates had had time to draw their first unemployment check, everyone was informed by screaming headlines that Oxford was a hotbed for all sorts of evil characters. The worst charge was—naturally—that persons were THINKING every now and then. This horror of horrors was to be eliminated immediately. Who ever heard of an academic community with freedom of thought? To some elements, states rights state institutions must be a disseminator of propaganda rather than a center of intellual activity. Naturally, most of the State didn't agree. Those who were using the American right of freedom of speech were quietly and efficiently put in their place.

As the Board of Trustees was giving the University the backing it deserved, students were beginning to return to the campus. Those who, the year before, had been complaining about the school and complaining about how little there is to do, left their homes in larger places to get back to the campus days before they were supposed to. The girls came first, for sorority rush. Fresh out of the cotton fields they came—high heel shoes in their hand—up to the big University. They were very frightened of those "mature" sorority girls who know exactly what to do and when to do it. They should have been frightened because many a black ball was dropped because a rushee had a hat on just like one of the actives!

Arriving on campus old and new students were greeted by the campus politicians and those other malcontents who came early. The boys used Orientation Week to "line up a few cute numbers," to impress the Freshmen girls, and—above all—to RUSH. While the Sophomores girls began to learn what s-l-u-m-p spells, the rest of the upperclass girls spent their time bragging about their respective pledge classes—each of which is THE BEST.

Registration finds everyone confused and mad at each other. In the better days of the South a true sign of quality in a gentleman or lady was his or her breeding—his manners. At this time of the school year the sign of manhood is the ability to sneak in registration early. Lying, breaking in line, filling out duplicate cards—all these things are accepted by male and female alike. Having gotten beyond the door, a student has still got a lot of worry ahead. People with doctorates have sat up nights trying to figure out ways to make things more complicated for the students. They always succeed.

Fraternity rush follows soon after registration, and the cafeteria is full of smiling faces and boisterous laughs as each fraternity man tries to out laugh the other at some pitiful joke told by a rushee. Those fraternities that serve meals always use the line about how nice it will be when rush is over to be able to eat over at the house instead of in the cafeteria. There are those that don't talk about "BROTHERHOOD." The parties are dull affairs during which time active and rushee alike each consumes a case of cokes, smokes millions of cigarettes, and eats only a few of the horrid sandwiches that are served. Then come the passionate speeches from the fraternity "wheels" as each group tries to impress the rushees more than the other. Each fraternity is the best on campus, but sometimes the rushees are told to look at the facilities while other times the rushee must look "not at the physical facilities, but at the MEN around—for THEY are what really makes a fraternity." Some groups even get alums and inactive members to make the impassioned speeches when none of them can do the job.

Having begun classes, the student body can relax and "get in their grill time." Various "grill clubs" are founded and each group tries to be more "beat" or more typically collegiate than the other. In fact, there is one group that claims that it has the modernday Dr. Samuel Johnson. During the rainy season commerce students use the library as shelter when walking from the Lyceum to the grill. Everyone makes plans for the football games, and the Freshmen boys write to their high school sweethearts to come up. Of course they are soon in for a shock because no date tickets are available.

This brings us to the file on "Tickets—lack of." Students really shouldn't complain since they had no trouble getting tickets to the Chattanooga and Memphis State games. For some reason they wanted to see the Ole Miss-LSU game. No one on the Athletic Committee thought it would be a very good game; so they tried to give away all the tickets. Unfortunately 600 tickets were retained, and that brought up a distribution problem. The Committee sat up all night trying to see which way would cause the most confusion, but they were aided by one of the students who had recently been elected to the House of Representatives. This young "leader" tried—as in the past—to take matters in his own hands. By passing out blue cards he achieved the dual goal of confusing the students and unjustly arousing their ire against the students who have the laborious task of distributing the tickets. Here's hoping our legislator does better in Jackson! When the Sugar Bowl came along, the bigwigs really went wild. The LSU tickets had caused such chaos, they didn't think that they could exceed what they had already done, but they did! On the premise of "Make it hard for the students to get a ticket," it was decided that each student would have to pick up his ticket at the stadium. This meant that the poor, very hung-over students had to drag their watermelon-heads out of bed at sun-up after a night in the Quarter and fight the traffic all the way to the stadium. Once there—with their end zone tickets in their hands—they did not have time to get back up town for a good meal; but they had to stay on Willow Street with no place to eat, no place to take a nap, no place to do anything. Congratulations, Athletic Committee, the Marquis de Sade would have been proud of you.

Football tickets are not the only kind of tickets that gave the students trouble this year—there were the parking tickets. The registration decals for cars are all different colors. They present a beautiful picture as one looks from one car to another. It is almost as if each student had his own private color. Where the students get confused is that they think that those colors really mean something. They don't. They don't need to because of the parking regulations. Those regulations are more complex than the Internal Revenue Code and are open for a lot more arbitrary interpretation than is the Code. Complicated, that is if you are trying to use your car. If you just park your car in September—realizing that you will get one ticket just for parking on the Ole Miss campus—and leave that ticket on the windshield until you use the car to drive home in the spring, then you will have surprisingly few problems. A student may park his car behind his dormitory in the inadequate parking lots. He may not use his car during the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 12:00 midnight. When he does use it, he cannot park anywhere on campus and if he goes off campus he must contend with the oxford police (lower case used intentionally) which is much worse than our staff of Rhodes Scholars. Those commuters and those living downtown or in the Village may park in the spacious parking lot that was built just for them and which is kept clear of all other cars. The only problem about that lot is that the new Music and Home Economics building is being built there and the concrete foundations, stacks of brick, and the basement that is being dug make parking rather difficult.

Not being able to use their cars, the students must stay in their rooms and find their entertainment there or somewhere on campus. Some amuse themselves with shooting of firecrackers or gambling. It would seem that the shooting of firecrackers was the more dangerous offense because one young man—who did not let the parking restrictions bother him but carried his "wheels" with him—was convicted for shooting a firecracker and was expelled from school. Another young man—an ex-ASB bigwig—had been caught drinking on top of a fraternity house and threw metal containers of some horrid "brew" at the campus cops. This little display brought him a "severe" reprimand and probation—which is merely a second chance. Although a few days later he was caught gambling, that student is still with us. I guess the criminal code here is written more in terms of who one's friends are rather than in terms of what one has done. This brings to mind the problem of drinking—of course, no Ole Miss student ever takes a drink!—but sometimes we have visitors who like to imbibe, and the antiquated laws of this state provide anything but an incentive to those "sinners." With new blood in the administration's Vice Squad, the year started off with a bang with one bewildered student's being bodily carried over to the gendarmes. Why that new blood was so new that it had not had time to be influenced by a higher-up and that ex-ASB lost his job for imbibing before anything could be done. Although the new blood may be hard on the students, it is refreshing to find one of the Vice Squad who treats everyone alike and has no favorites.

After the panic of final exams, things settled down to "normal." Registration started again. This time, however, all those "helpful" fraternity men who first semester had filled out the cards and helped with the schedule of any freshman who even looked like a rushee or any impressionable co-ed were nowhere to be found. The pledges, the co-eds, and the other Freshmen had to scramble for themselves. No one gave them the slightest bit of information. This is a good example of the motto on the campus that "At Ole Miss, Everybody Speaks,—Until Rush Week Is Over."

The Campus Senate settled down to its usual year of doing nothing. This impotent group occupied itself with the trivial and created more problems than it solved. The Committee on Committees created several new committees, the most important of which was the committee to select members for the committee on committees. While the Senate was making much ado about nothing, the Executive branch of ASB was ruling like a not-so-enlightened despot. The President believed in the "spoils system" as he appointed fraternity brothers to fill most of the positions. All the useless legislation that campus senates of the years gone by had passed was neatly ignored as the "king" and his cabinet ruled supreme. The Senate put up a weak protest, but to no avail.

The majority of the students enjoyed their college year in blissful ignorance of the existence of the Associated Student Body government; and those active in ASB activities enjoyed the school year in blissful ignorance of the existence of the rest of the student body. Spring brings election time, however, and whether the students like it or not they are beseiged by politicians who are just dying to be "a servant of you, the Student, in ASB Gov." It started in late February this year as in the years gone by. The first warning that one has that elections are near—by "near" the campus politicians mean about two months off, although some started running when they came on the campus as a Freshman—is that people begin speaking to one another. Those "ASBers" who haven't spoken to the rest of the student body since the last election begin speaking to everyone. Suddenly they are intensely interested in what you are doing, how your love life is, what courses you are taking, how good or bad the weather is, etc., etc., etc., etc. Fortunately this begins gradually, otherwise the rest of the student body couldn't take it. The speaking is followed by waves from strangers who are halfway across the campus. Scowls are replaced with toothy grins. Then come the posters. Everywhere one turns a picture or a poster is there to greet you. Every bulletin board and almost every inch of wall space is covered with posters. One can't take a shower without having some candidate's picture staring at him. (Please note that one of the new Campus Senate's "accomplishments" was a new set of election regulations that was supposed to keep posters only on bulletin boards). Not only is one's eyesight infringed upon but also is one's hearing. Everywhere one goes one will find some candidate trying to convince everyone that he has the "student" at heart and that he wants the "privilege" of "serving," etc., etc., etc. A person is not even safe in his dorm room. Even here the politicians manage to crawl under locked doors to make speeches and to "get to know you folks in the dorm" so that they can "know exactly what the problems are." When election day rolls around you can get a ride anywhere free, and all the girls are smiling at you. In fact, the girls never smile so much except during the day of the Parade of Favorites and Beauties. Eventually the votes are counted and another election is over. The politicians return to their own little world and the campus can once again be enjoyed by the "normal" students.
